Mascot Symbolizes School

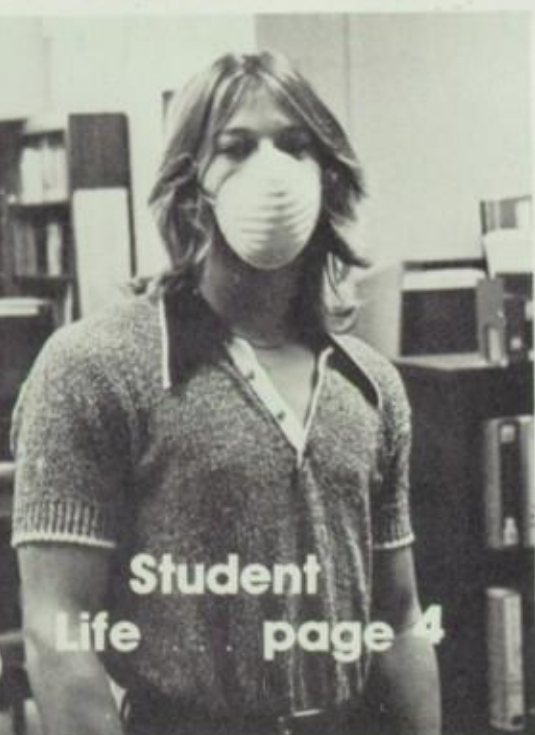

A little known fact about the panther mascot is that he is a very rare variety of the spotted leopard. Thus, the black panther's oddity can only be explained through the genetics of the leopard.

In this regard, when a spotted leopard mates with a black panther, their offspring is spotted. If the second generation animal later mates with another leopard that has the same impure background, a black panther may result.

The chances that two impure breeds of leopards would mate, however, are very slim. Even in cases where this combination does occur, 75% of all the leopards born are of the spotted variety while only 25% inherit the mutant gene which causes the pure black coat.

Throughout the year, the panther's uniqueness directly symbolized the individuality of the school. For example, the intelligence and cunningness which the wild panther displays were exhibited academically. In sports, the panther's agility and strength were expressed competitively. More importantly, each student made an individual contribution, thus reflecting the uniqueness and originality of the panther. Some clubs and activities were unstable causing surprising results while other clubs persevered and survived. In comparison, the panther is one of nature's surprises due to his persevering qualities.

All Students Do Participate

Panthers could be seen on campus doing such things as actively participating in sports and supporting them, as well as studying in classrooms and working on extra-curricular activities. Individuals found various ways of expressing themselves as Panthers. Thus, every contribution had a significant effect on the development of the overall Panther personality.

Why

1. A picture of Derby Senior High School, taken shortly after the new building was opened in 1959, shows the drive under B-Hall before it was removed ten years later. See related mini-feature on page 9.

2. Presented by six graduating classes, the black panther symbolizes pride.

Years Add Value To Panther

The black, Belgian marble panther, housed in glass at the entrance of the gymnasium, was taken for granted by most students. However, investigation revealed the current monetary value to be approximately $20,000.

The artwork was created by Italian sculptor Spartaco Palla and was formally presented in December 1969. Money to purchase the carving came from the classes of 1963 through 1968 and amounted to approximately $6,000, including shipping costs.

Major efforts to get the panther created and shipped from Italy were made by Mrs. Sue Jean Covacevich and Mr. Roy Robertson, art instructor and principal, respectively, during the 1963-68 period. Senior class officers also contributed.

Carthage Marble Company, in Carthage, Missouri, provided a link between the school and the artist. Mr. Palla agreed to do the sculpture at a reduced price because he needed something for relaxation while forming a white marble statue of John F. Kennedy that was eventually placed in Washington D.C. It took approximately six months for him to complete the panther.

While in transit, areas on the back and hips received scratches. As a result, Mrs. Covacevich's art classes polished the damaged portions.

Mr. Palla's sculpture gave students, faculty, and the community a visual expression of the mascot chosen by students in 1948. The special feeling which surrounded the sculpture was articulated by Mrs. Thelda Jean Delamarter, Language Arts instructor, when she noted, "Because of the care and concern . . . that's what makes it priceless."

School Pride Reflects Spirit

Students attended school at Derby because they lived in Unified School District #260. However, some students who lived between the Derby and Haysville School Districts chose to attend Derby.

Various reasons were given for preferring to be a Derby Panther, as opposed to attending another school. However, pride reflected in the following statements:

Scott Foster, soph., said, "I like going to Derby because I like the people better."

Mary Orth, jr., commented, "It means lots of things. It means pride. Because I'm a person who quit school and came back, it means I'll probably make it somewhere in this world."

Ronnie "Hollywood" Great-house, jr., stated proudly, "It means being a Superstar."

2. Seniors Rick Wagner and Brad Oliphant hold a gong while Wade Nichols hits it in an attempt to help win the spirit contest for the seniors.

3. After the flooding of the Arkansas River, the 83rd Street South Bridge is rendered impassible to motorists for two days in November.

4. One of the many pieces of art on display throughout the library, this statuette, a replica of the bronze original by Francois Pompon, is on exhibit in a glass case.

Panther Realm Aids Survival

Derby was relatively small in number, such as its counterpart, the panther, yet the school competed with great strength against larger schools. Perhaps the supportive surroundings contributed, just as the natural habitat of tropical rain forests provides a place where the wild panther can compete with other animals and flourish. Apparently, the animal's black color provides excellent camouflage in the gloomy forest.

Nuss Creates Floral Effect

From parking lot to courtyard, Mr. Jim Nuss donated time, nurturing the area until it virtually became a floral showplace.

The courtyard was formed after the drive under B-Hall was removed in 1969. Then, Colorama, a project sponsored by StuCo, provided funds for greenery. Mr. Nuss donated a fir tree that his parents brought from Colorado in 1956. However, roses given by Dr. Dixon in 1958 remained when the courtyard was landscaped and have stayed since.

Besides the fir and roses, the courtyard included community donated Chinese Fostoria, quince, a crab apple tree and a peach tree. In regard to his reasons for beautifying the area, Mr. Nuss commented, "Once the environment dies, human life will be soon to follow."

Until 1977, the courtyard was the smoking area, but litter problems caused a new place to be designated for smoking.

How

With Sharing Comes Pride

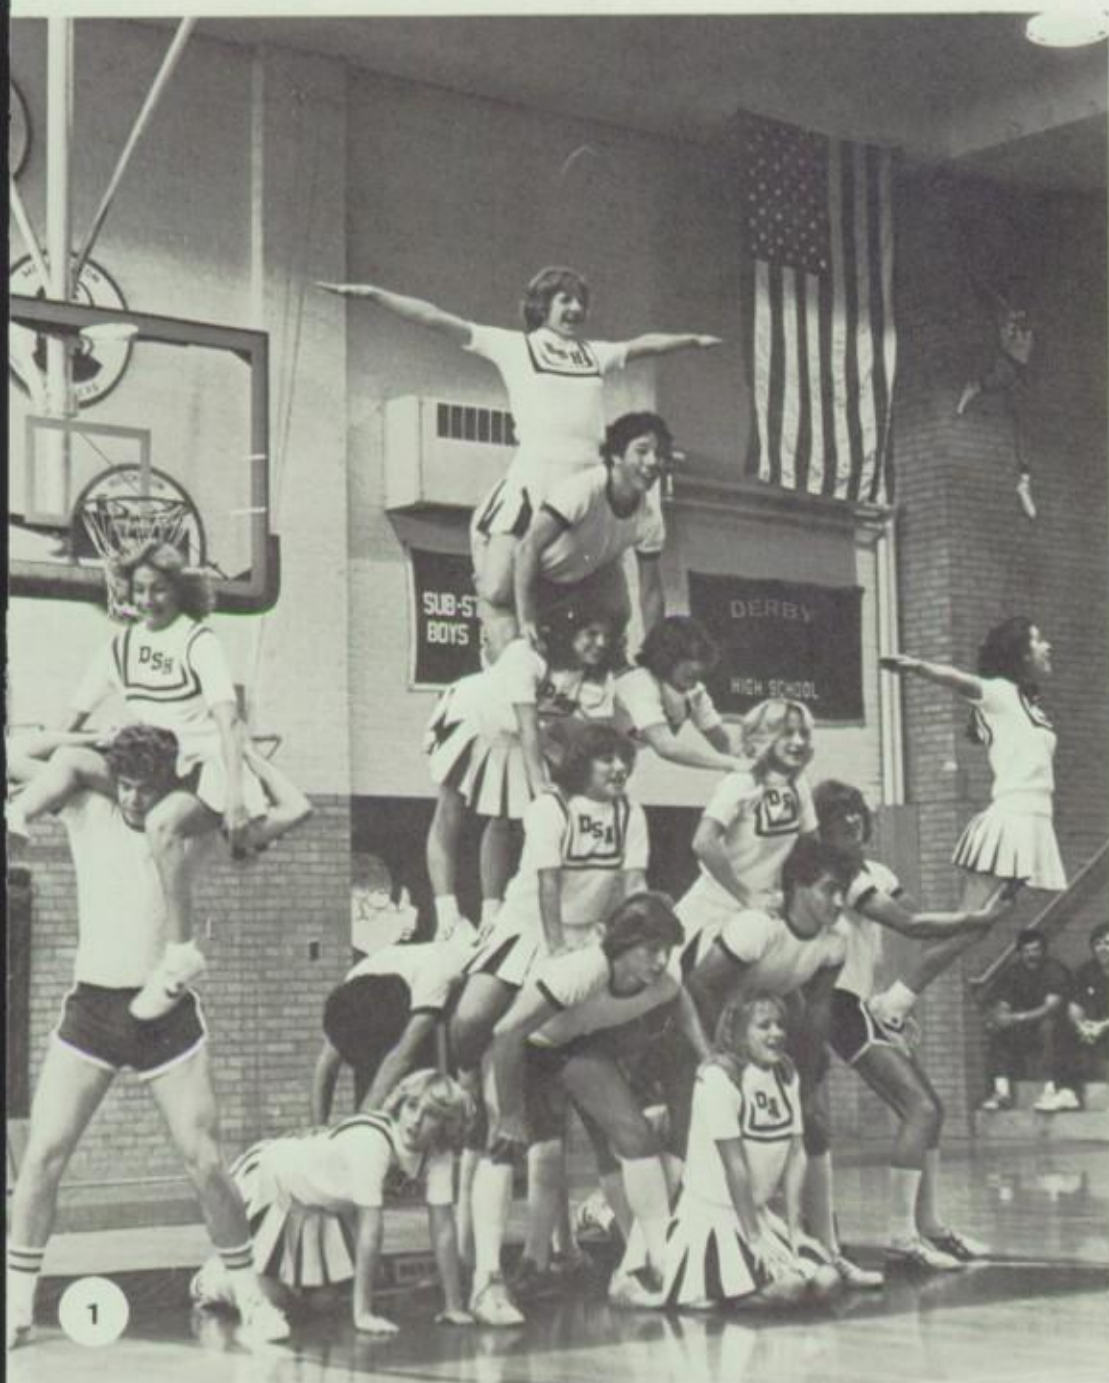

Derby students became panthers because they inherited the mascot and assumed his traits. However, becoming a genuine Green Panther required getting up early to practice after perhaps being up late the night before while studying for a test. Also, being a Panther meant sharing the school's pride with newcomers in order that they, too, could experience the feeling. In addition, sweat, aching muscles, mental fatigue, and curling irons were all a part of becoming a Derby Panther.

Spirit Engulfs Student Body

Hats, poodle-skirts, coneheads, clashing colors, and green and white clothes might not have much in common, but Spirit Week brought these things together in celebration of Homecoming.

Each person participated in his own way. Starting off the week was Hat Day. Various styles appeared throughout the halls and classrooms, each showing the hat wearer's spirit.

A new idea was tried on Tuesday with participating students wearing outfits for Clash Day that didn't match. That was the only day in the year when students didn't have to worry about whether their clothes looked all right. Some students even clashed minor accessories such as earrings and bracelets.

On Wednesday students brought out parents' old clothes for Fifties Day. OxforDs, bobby socks, and circle skirts were recovered that morning from trunks and put to use.

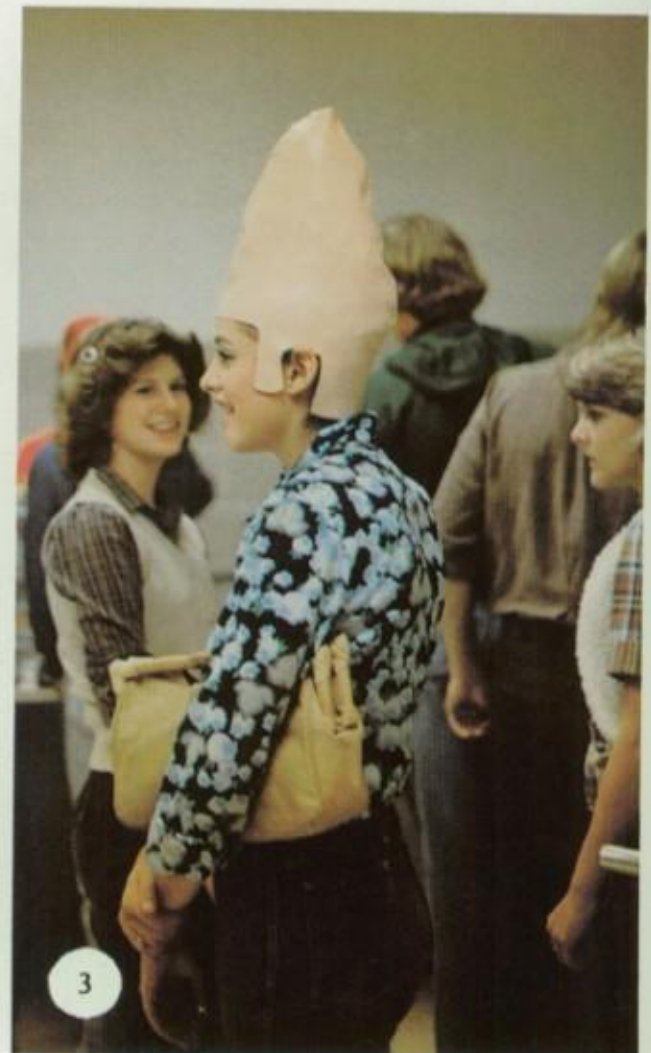

Participation swelled as the week progressed. On Thursday favorite "Saturday Night Live" characters were imitated by students wearing coneheads, Mr. Bill shirts, and other costumes.

Spirit Week ended on Friday with students wearing the school colors, watching the parade after fourth hour, and viewing the traditional football game.

1. Mash the Colts, the theme of the senior float, took first place in the class float competition. The themes were chosen from popular television programs.

2. Dressed for Clash Day, Denise Karr, soph., shows off her style during lunch.

3. Conehead Kim Lusk, sr., draws attention on "Saturday Night Live" Day.

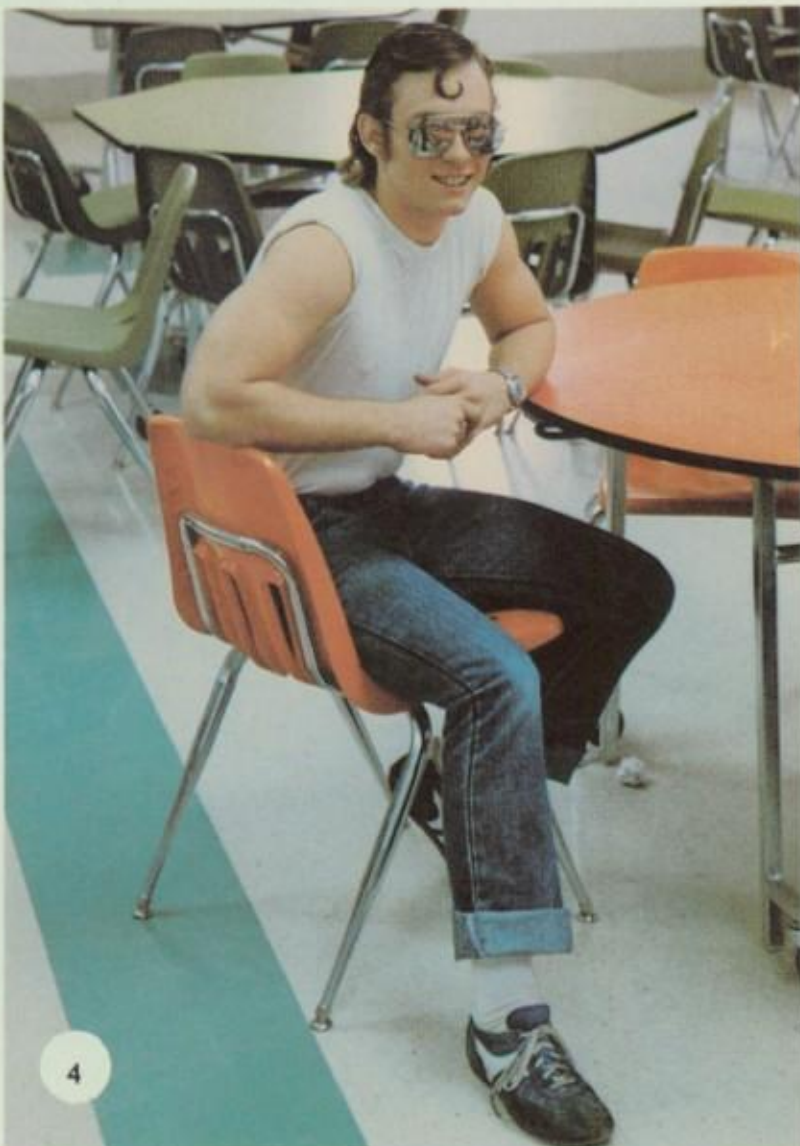

1. Finding herself in quite a pinch, Paige Petersen, sr., who is dressed as a member of the "Butt Family" from "Saturday Night Live," is teased by Terri Pericola, sr.

2. Participant on Hat Day, Melissa Crook, soph., strolls down the hall in an umbrella hat.

3. Juniors cook the Campus Colt in their "Souper Bowl."

4. Portraying the "nifty fifties," Ken Robinson, sr., slicks back his hair and rolls up his sleeves and cuffs for Fifties Day.

5. Coming in third with their first attempt at float construction, sophomores' entry in the parade is "Love Boat."

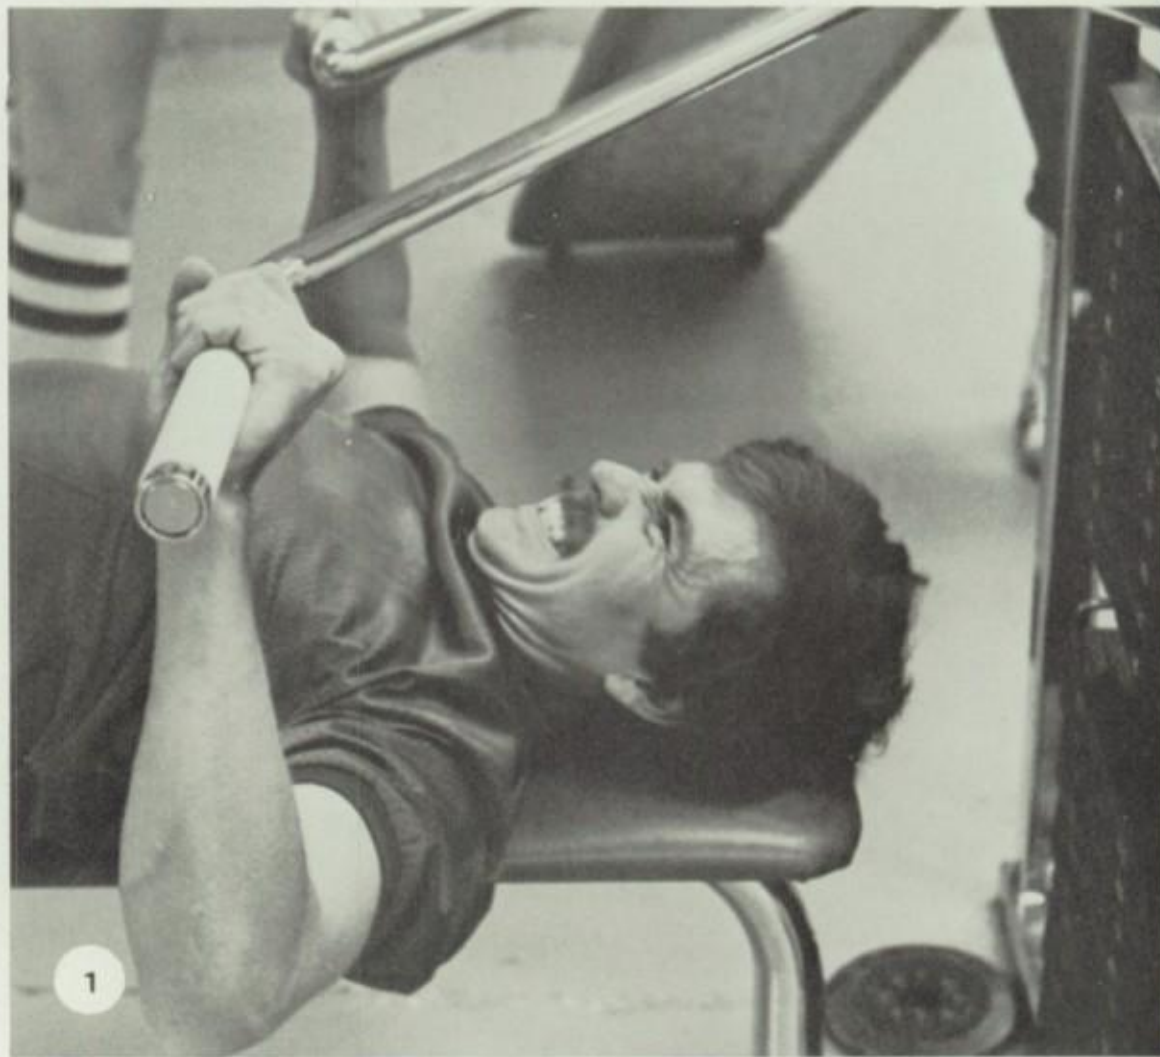

Behind The Scenes

Goals Fulfilled After School

Many people worked behind the scenes who deserved recognition, but were rarely even noticed. Because the list was endless, these two pages are merely representative of those people.

Countless evenings were spent on various projects which required total involvement of the mind and body. As a result of the time spent together, many meaningful friendships developed that classroom environments did not permit. Meanwhile, others spent lonely and frustrating hours providing support services for others or achieving individual goals.

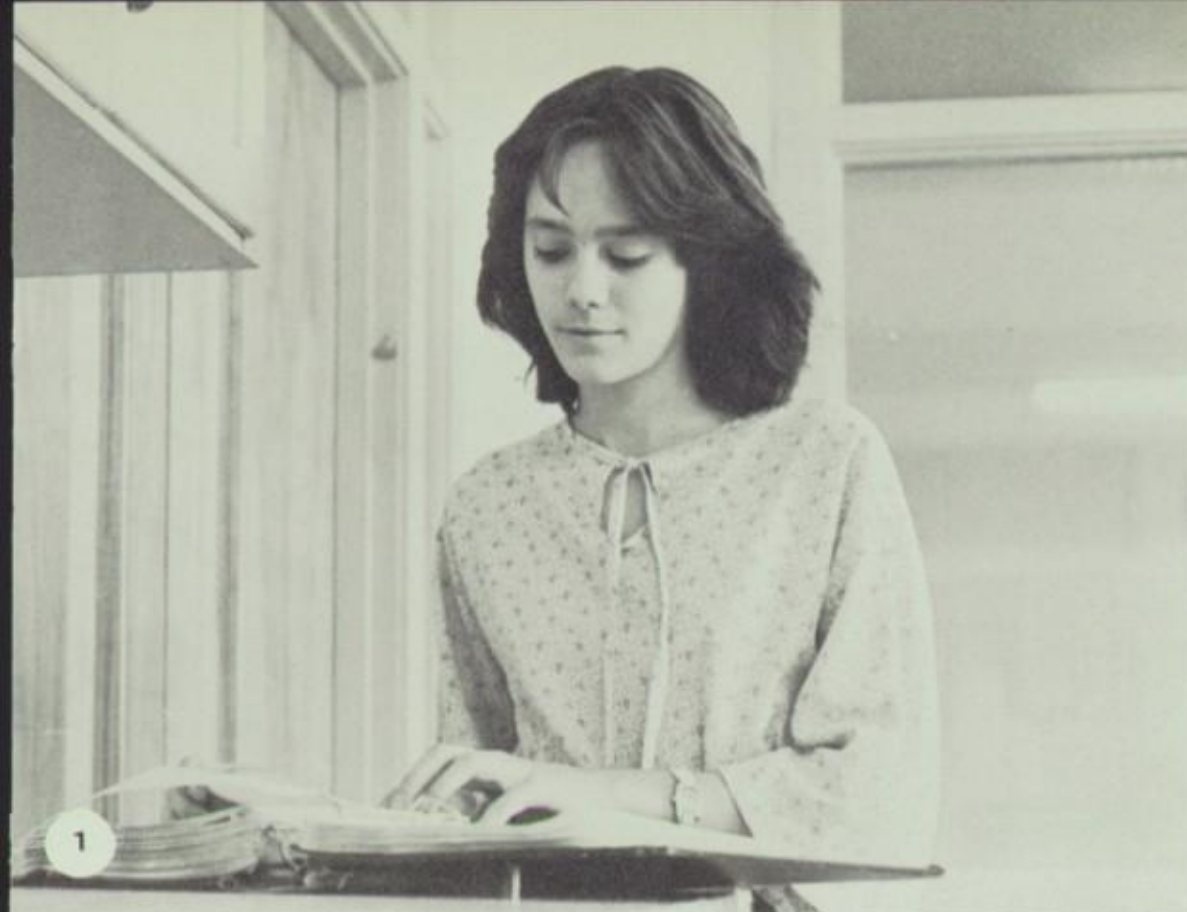

1. During his free period, Mr. John Kennedy, math instructor, works out in the weight room to keep in shape.

2. Working together, seniors Madeline Edwards and Kevin Case paste up a page of the "Panther's Tale."

3. Reaching through her newly installed plexi-glass window, Mrs. Peggy Unkel, bookkeeper, receives from Diantha Was-tell, soph., book rental payment. The window was installed in order to keep the desired temperature in her office.

3. To arouse spirit around the school, Teresa Barnes, soph., paints signs during a poster party.

Majority Feels Jobs Do Not Affect Grades

To discover the effects of jobs on high school students, in December the "Panther" yearbook staff conducted a job survey of 335 students. The poll revealed that 25% of the people questioned were females who worked while males who held jobs constituted only 24%.

On the other hand, of those students participating in the survey, who indicated that they did not work, 30% were female and 21% were male. From these statistics it could be said that slightly over half of the students did not work.

The average wage for females had raised since the end of 1978 nearly the same percentage as the minimum wage had increased. The male workers' average wage did not raise quite as much, but the average amount of money per hour they made was approximately 30¢ higher than the females' pay. The apparent higher wages of the males could be attributed to the fact that more girls had jobs in which they received tips as part of their pay. According to the poll, the average amount paid per hour in 1979 was $2.96 to females and $3.24 to males.

The students worked seven to 40 hours a week. Although the majority liked working, 61% disclosed that working had, at some time, kept them from participating in an activity or sport.

While 71% claimed grades were not affected by working, 50% admitted jobs often kept homework from being done. Either there was no correlation between homework and grades, or some working students took classes not requiring much homework. Another possible explanation could have been that the poll was taken prior to semester report card distribution, and students did not realize that their grades had been affected.

Board Of Education And Administration Policies And Programs Continue Second Year

Replacing two former board members, Mr. Gary Read and Mr. Ron Purcell joined the Board of Education. Mrs. Mary Lou Dextras, former president of the school board, and Mr. Ralph Weigandt returned after being re-elected.

Mr. Ronald Nelson, Mr. Jeff Watson, and the Rev. Bruce Blake (president) remained to continue their terms of office.

The Board of Education approved the continuation of the rental of the Xerox 7000 copying machine in the Central Administrative Office. It was used to provide a high quality reproduction of study materials for all schools in the district. Although the new system produced more legible copies, it was also responsible for many disruptions of lesson plans at the beginning of the year.

For the second year, the Board of Education approved an Alternative Learning Room, which replaced out-of-school suspension with a form of in-school suspension, with no loss of credit involved. In addition to the Senior High students, Derby Junior High students also shared the room and teacher.

All Central Office and High School Administrators returned to fill the same positions held the previous year. Mr. Kendall Pyle, principal, again directed the Action Learning Lab, which allowed students to receive credit for holding a job in the community, working as a lab assistant, or being involved in Junior Achievement.

For the first full year, the attendance procedure enacted by the Board of Education provided a stricter and more unified enforcement of attendance requirements.

Secretaries Computer Benefits Office Staff

Office secretaries, Mrs. Erlene Farr and Mrs. Diana Nelson, kept busy working for Mr. Kendall Pyle, principal, as well as Mr. Howard Bowie and Mr. Dennis Williams, assistant principals.

Meanwhile, Office Education students worked part time, assisting the secretaries with duties in the main office and counselors' office. In addition, a computer aided the secretaries with student records.

Mrs. Lois Kramer, attendance clerk, also worked part time telephoning parents of students who had unexcused absences. Further services were provided for the students by Mrs. Peggy Unkel, bookkeeper, Mrs. Mary Galloway, library secretary, and Mrs. Betty Everhart, study hall aid.

Mrs. Nelson, stated, "I feel we had a good student body this year. Attendance seemed to be better than past years."

Cooks And Custodians Changes Bring Organization

For the first time, Derby initiated three lunch periods instead of two.

Mrs. Shirley Donovan, manager, stated, "Having three lunch periods was a problem, but later in the year the change brought organization."

Melvin Farber, head custodian, commented, "There was some setback this year with finding people to work as custodians. It seemed like no one wanted the job."

Joe Sanchez, sr., part-time custodian, stated, "Some students were willing to work after school which helped, but the situation was still unstable."

Media Center And Drivers Education Gains Offset Early Losses

The Media Center got off to a rough start when expensive video equipment was stolen the night before school started. Some of the items taken were a color television set, a video tape machine, a video monitor, and the library's AM-FM radio. According to Mrs. Janet Heidebrecht, media specialist, many students asked about the radio, but there was no way to replace it at that time.

Excessive problems with overdue books also caused problems. A new school policy prohibited fines and withholding grade cards; consequently, many books were not returned.

A new addition to the Media Center involved the installation of cable vision to several classrooms in adjoining halls. The outlets in the individual rooms enabled the students to stay in their classrooms to watch a variety of pre-recorded programs.

2. Concentrating on driving, Itress Tackett, soph., attempts one of the maneuvers on the driving range.

The Drivers Education Department remained relatively unchanged. One change, however, increased the number of hours driving on the road and decreased the number of hours driving on the range.

For the fifth year in a row, Scholfield Brothers Pontiac of Wichita furnished the Drivers Education vehicles.

Home Economics And Industrial Education Students Seek Further Skills

With a full load of students, the Home Economics and Industrial Education instructors attempted to broaden the skills of students and prepare them for the future.

Various projects helped accomplish the goals set in each of the classes. Many of the students used original ideas for the projects on which they worked. Production Printing, on the other hand, was responsible for printing different items for the community as well as working on the production and printing of the school newspaper.

Although the house built the previous year by the Vocational Building Trades Class sold for $17,000, the class was cancelled due to the fact that no qualified instructor could be found. As a result, Dr. John Green, VICA sponsor, assumed responsibility for the students who were enrolled in the class. Dr. Green worked with the students to find jobs which would help them receive the desired training.

Guest speakers and demonstrations seemed to open the eyes of the students involved in the Home Economics Department. This was achieved by offering various facts to students to help them realize the problems in the world and to prepare them for the experiences they could encounter in the years to come.

As an addition to class study, the Child Care I class planned a Christmas party where students brought children to class.

Business Department And Special Education Teachers, Curriculum Change

An all new teaching staff was one of the few changes made in the Special Education Department. The new teachers, Mrs. Deborah Ingram, Mr. Thomas Romenius, and Mrs. Sharon Bullock, department chairperson, all contributed to teach the 34 students who needed special help in gaining a diploma.

The Learning Disabilities class consisted of students who had average or above average intelligence, but had a special need in one area, such as reading or math. After attending their regular academic classes they reported to Mrs. Bullock for one-to-one instruction during their study hall.

Educable Mentally Handicapped (EMH) students took most of their academic classes from Mrs. Ingram and Mr. Romenius. Some of the students participated in regular physical education classes, while others participated in a special education class taught by Mr. Romenius.

An addition to the Business Department was that the Business Communications class was moved to the Business Department from the English Department. For the last year, the class could be counted as either an English or business credit.

Another change was that the Aviation class was offered for a full year instead of only one semester. This qualified the students to take the F.A.A. test after completing the Aviation class, which was equivalent to ground school. The extra semester allowed more time for the class to take field trips. A few of the places visited were Beech Aircraft, the Weather Bureau, and Wichita Area Vocational Technical School.

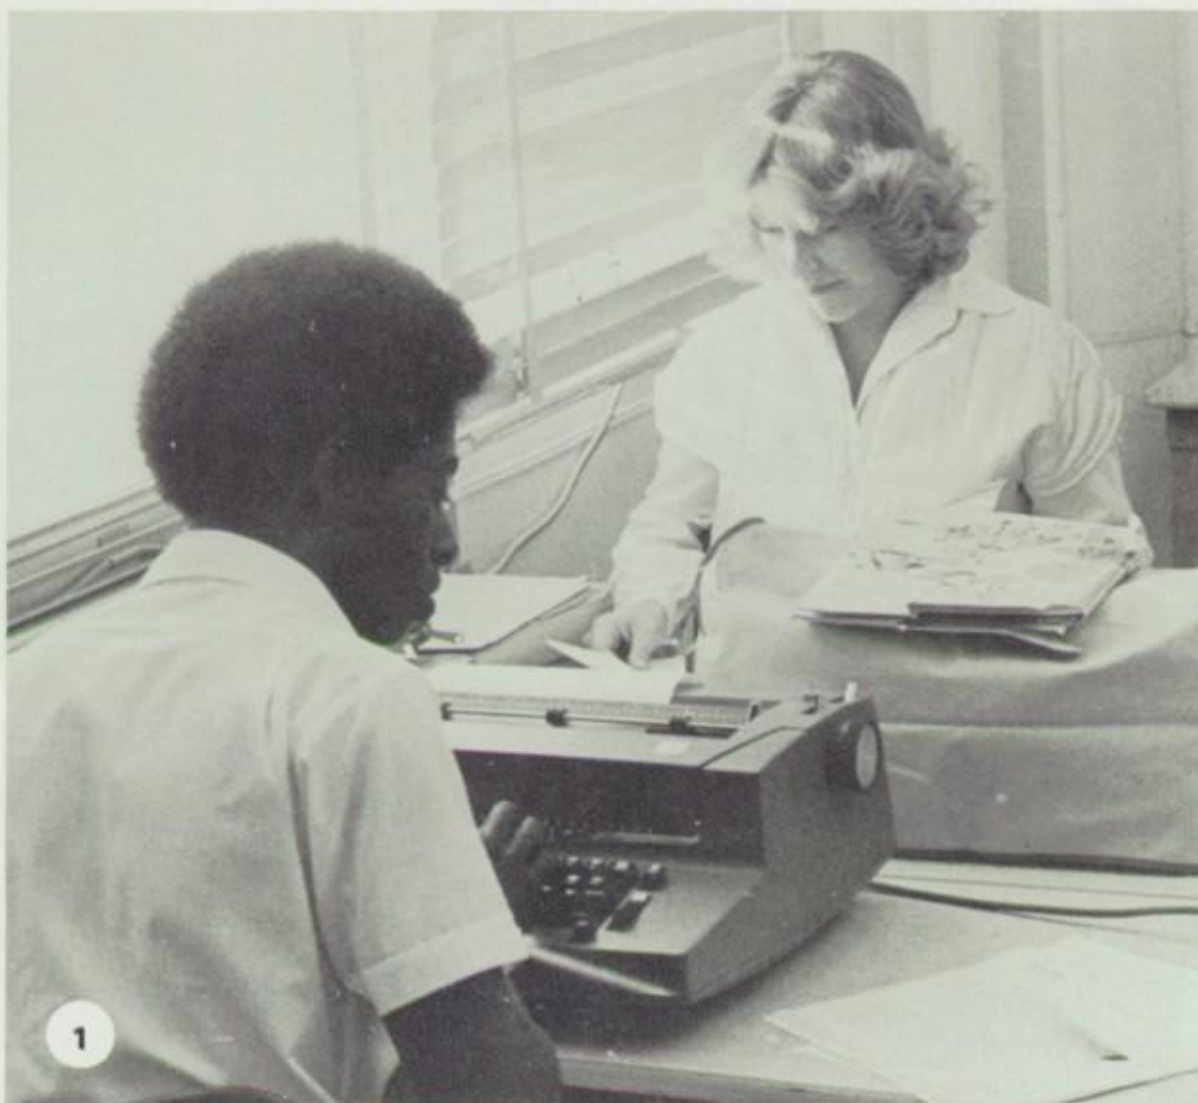

The business education teachers had the opportunity to have a luncheon together once a month during third lunch. Each teacher was responsible for bringing a covered dish to share with fellow staff members. The luncheon allowed the teachers time to discuss the department or just have a good time. Mrs. Ailene Bowie replaced Mr. Jack Nelson at mid-term.

2. During a luncheon, Mrs. Bobbie Evans serves the rest of the business education faculty. The group got together once a month to share lunch.

Social Science And Physical Education Classes Add New Teachers

The Social Science Department added two new teachers, Mr. John Fasano and Mrs. Pam Lusk. They replaced Mr. Max Lighty and Mrs. Sondra Van Meter.

In regard to outside studies, the department planned field trips to the Eisenhower Museum and the Wichita Court House.

At the same time, an increase in enrollment in the Physical Education Department caused many changes, one of which was the addition of a new teaching position filled by Coach Rod Spatz. Classes were also limited permitting students to take only one hour of physical education a year. The restriction allowed more students to take the classes.

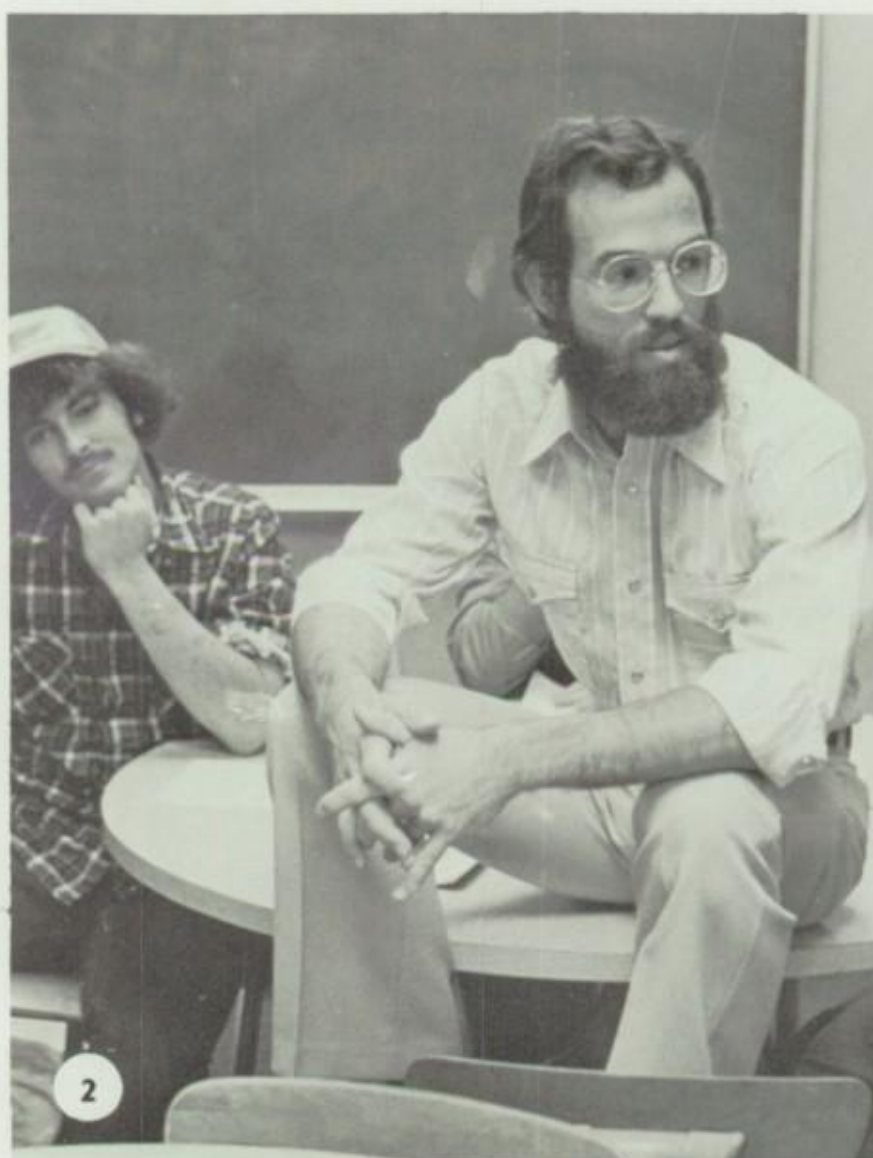

On the other hand, a new and larger equipment room, which used to be in the girls' locker room, was moved to where the old weight room had been. "We now have more space, and it's better organized," stated Ms. Alana Pharis, department head.

1. During a game of table tennis, Mary Czarniecki, sr., awaits the serve.

Math And Science New Teachers Aid Programs

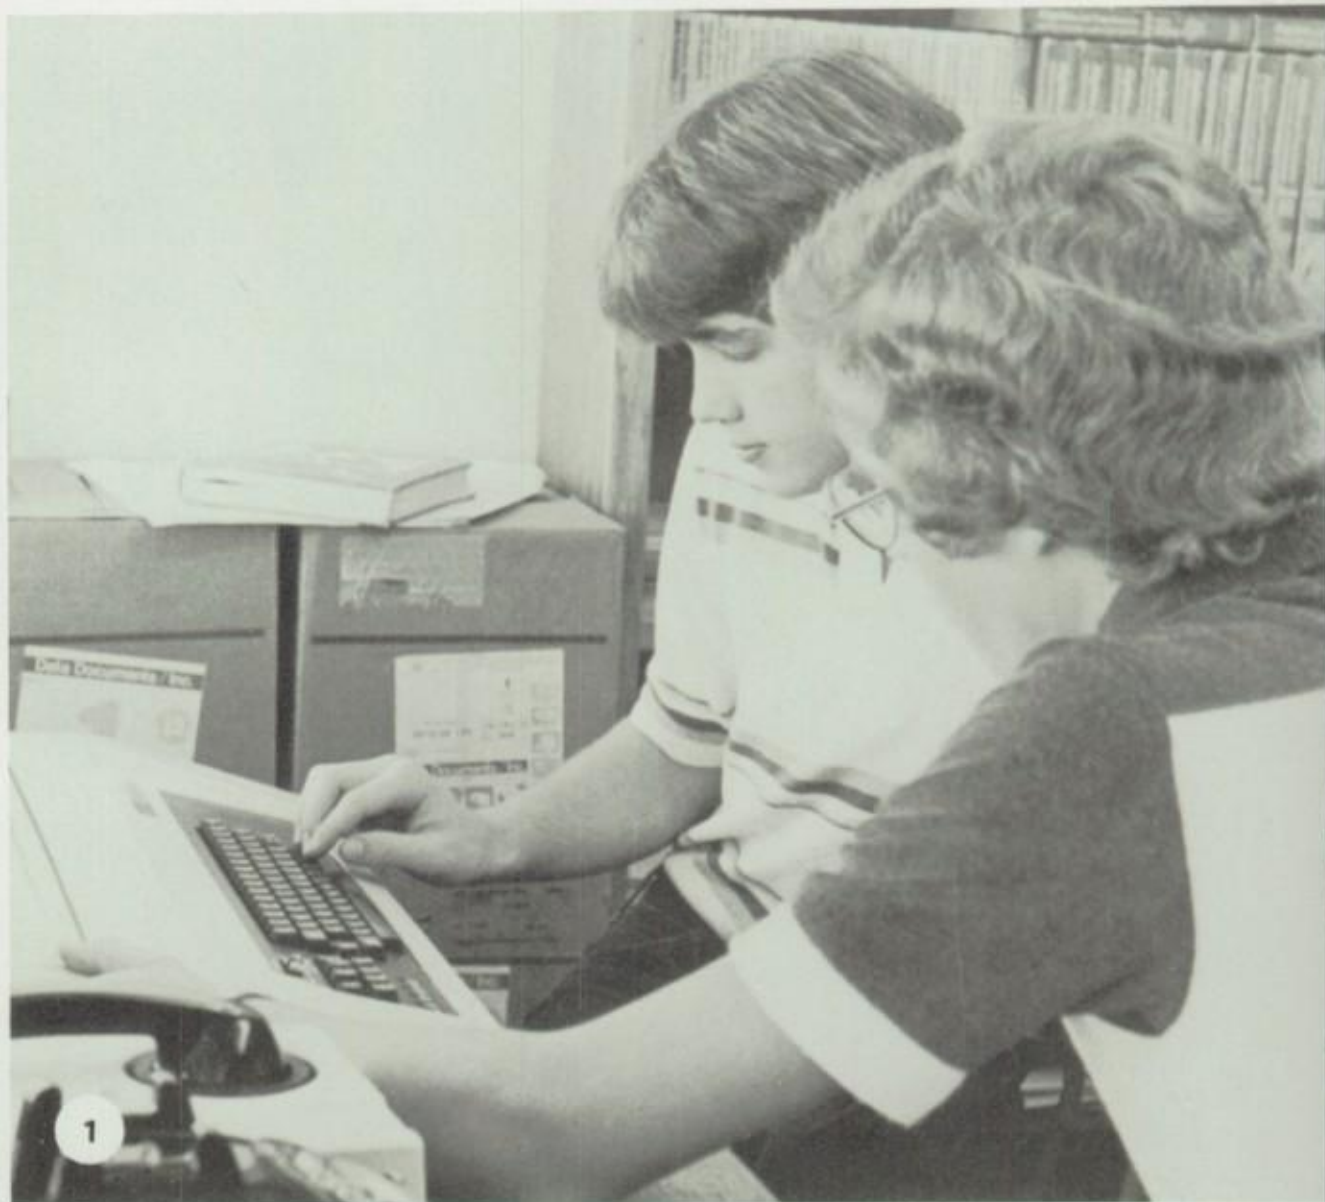

Positive changes and extra teachers resulted in improvements in the Math and Science Departments.

According to Mr. Kermit Daum, Science Department chairperson, the new teachers made it possible to remove the waiting list for students wanting to take science and math classes.

The Science Department standards were not changed; however, students maintained a higher grade average than the previous year. Some teachers attributed the improvement partly to new teachers who gained the students' interests. New teachers were Mrs. Pamela Breech, who taught physical science and biology, and Mrs. Judy Mealing, who filled a new part-time position teaching physics and chemistry.

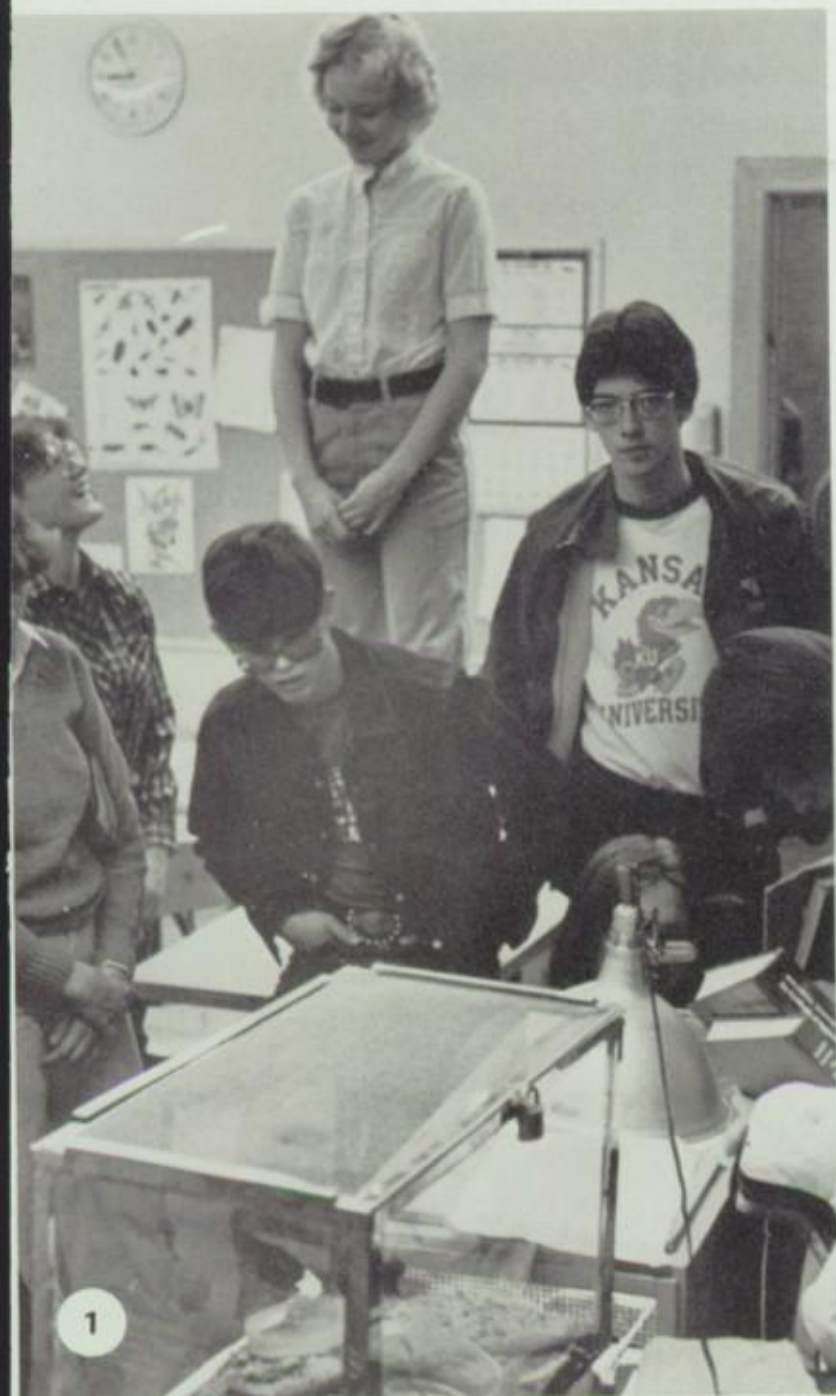

In the Math Department, new teachers also had an impact on the students. Due to the approximate 10% increase in enrollment, three new teachers were hired to replace two teachers who left at the end of the previous year. They were Mr. Mike Kindt, who taught geometry, Mr. Clyde Kastler, who taught Algebra II and geometry, and Mrs. Elsie Brown, who taught Algebra I.

For the second year, the Math Department used an on-line computer terminal which was tied in with the Wichita Public Schools' computer system. Thus, the Algebra II teachers not only taught math, but they also taught Computer Extended Instruction (CEI) which familiarized students with B.A.S.I.C. math language.

Fine Arts And Foreign Languages Classes Rise In Enrollment

Enrollment in Foreign Language and Fine Arts classes increased in comparison to previous years.

In order to accommodate for increased enrollment in German II and French I classes, the Foreign Language Department rearranged its class schedule.

Philharmonic Choir was one of the largest choirs ever at Derby. Mr. Ross Hearn, Vocal Music Director, stated, "This year's choir has the potential of being the best ever."

During the choir's mid-winter concert, the orchestra accompanied the choir on one of its selections, Schubert's "Mass In G." Earlier in the year, fifteen orchestra students ventured to Kansas City to participate in the University of Missouri Honor Orchestra.

The band excelled early in the year with a "I" rating at the annual Marching Band Contest. The Jazz Ensemble held its first joint concert ever with Wichita Southeast High School in November.

Prior to the Drama III production of "Spoon River Anthology," Mrs. Jan Eaton, Drama Instructor, shattered her ankle. However, the drama students managed to continue with the show.

Language Arts And AFJROTC Leaders Instill Basic Training

Many changes were made in the Language Arts Department with most affecting the sophomores. Mrs. Thelda Delamarter, head of the Language Arts Department, said, "We started the sophomores on a College Bound and Noncollege Bound, two-tract system." Sophomores were allowed to enroll in semester classes only. It simplified enrollment and gave the students better English backgrounds.

Returning for her second year, Mrs. Janet Chegwidder taught remedial reading classes.

Little change occurred within the ROTC Department. MSgt. William Heath (Ret.), ROTC instructor, described ROTC as a program for students to become acquainted with all aspects of aerospace. He explained that ROTC has nothing to do with the Air Force or the military except that they receive financial support from the Air Force.

Emphasis was placed on teaching self discipline and respect for others. Students were eligible to compete for one of many military scholarships available.

Cross-Country Team Shows Endurance

As a team goal, members tried to make Cross-Country a major sport.

Coach Mike Burns remarked, "There were a lot of young participants, yet they gained experience during the season. All of the kids attained some individual success, and there wasn't one person that didn't progress."

At the beginning of the season there were good results; however, later injuries hurt the team.

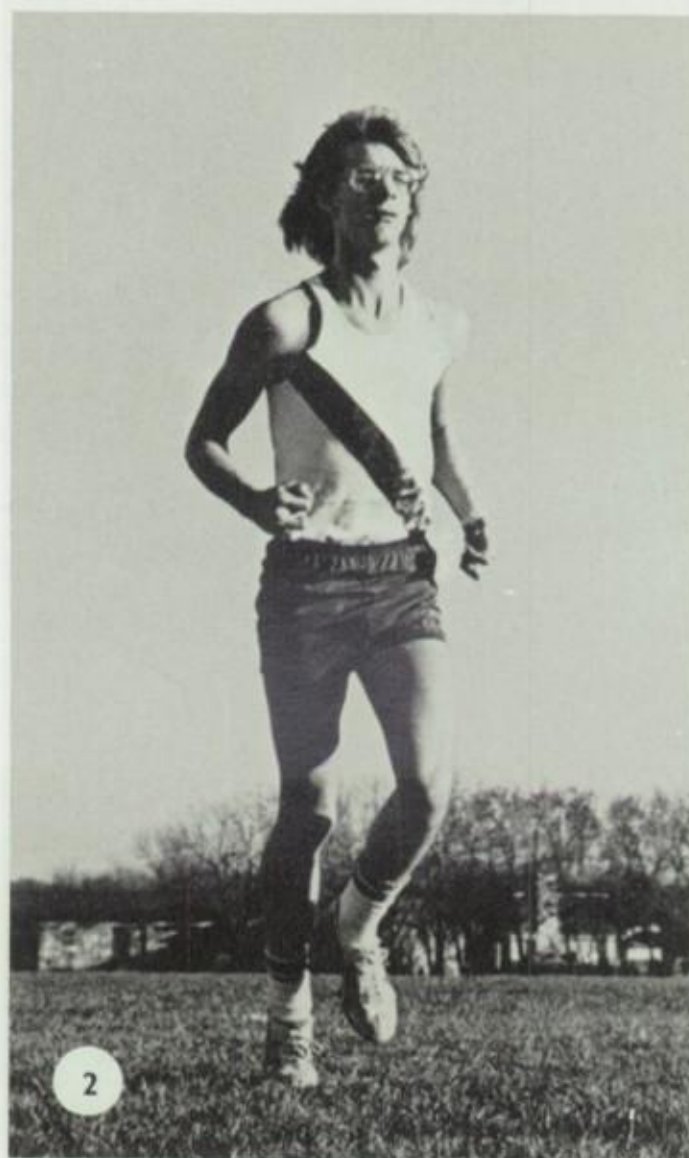

Coach Burns stated, "I hope a strong Cross-Country program will be established and be competitive. That's important because it gives the team an alternate athletic pursuit."

Gymnastics Girls Survive Minor Injuries

"With a small, yet dedicated team, we came out all right," said Coach Marty Hunt.

The team experienced minor difficulties toward the end of the season. Several gymnasts were injured or unable to compete for various reasons.

At the Regional Meet, only three gymnasts participated because of injuries.

For the first time, the team qualified for the High School All American Team with a score of 99.5 out of a possible 100.

At the State Meet, the gymnasts placed fourth.

Volleyball Team Shows Dedication

"Although there were excessive injuries throughout the season, the girls kept high spirits," stated Hyla Emery, varsity player.

"Due to injuries on the varsity squad, some junior varsity girls moved up to the varsity team to compete in the first few games, commented Coach Alana Pharis.

Varsity girls competed against many other teams in their first invitational tournament.

The Sub-State Tournament took place at Wichita South High, where the girls lost to South, but had an unpredicted win over Wichita Southeast. The win resulted in the girls becoming the Sub-State runner-up.

Team Exceeds Expectations

The Panthers' season exceeded both the coaches' and athletes' expectations. Head Coach Tom McVay stated, "I didn't think the team would do as well as they did, but the kids were willing to do what was necessary to be a winning team."

In contrast to recent years, the team had a tremendous amount of speed. Coach McVay added, "Our speed proved to be a big asset to our game."

After excelling early in the season, the Varsity squad remained undefeated for six successive games. They were bound for post-season action until the Wellington and Ark City games, when they were soundly defeated.

Junior Varsity Football Team Looks Toward Future

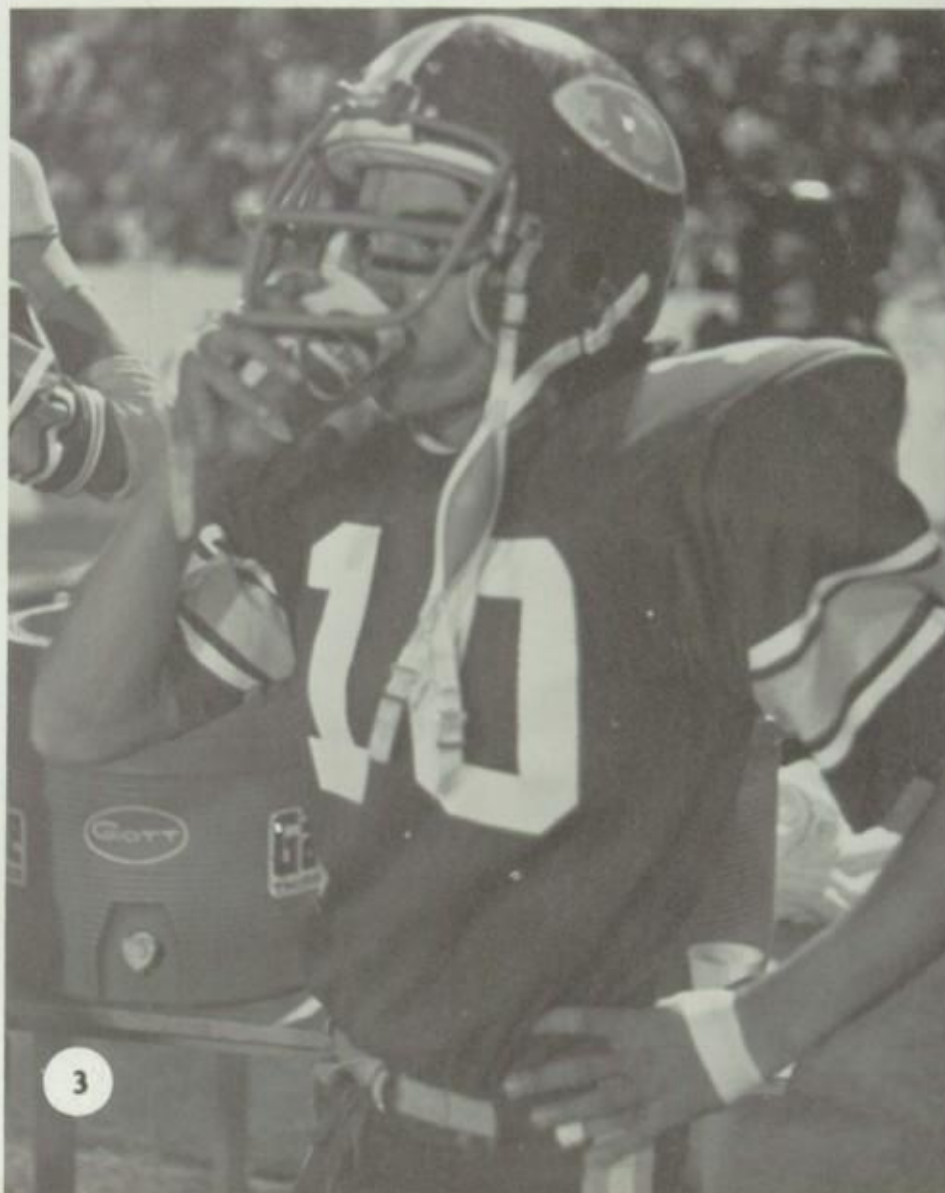

"The Panthers gained a lot of experience for the coming years," stated Coach Boyd Ayer.

Gaining experience was the primary goal of the Junior Varsity team. The team consisted of juniors and sophomores who also played on the Varsity and Sophomore teams. Playing on the Junior Varsity team gave the athletes a chance to play more and to perfect their talents.

The team played five games during their season, finishing with a 2-3, win-loss record.

Coach Ayer added, "Capping the season with a 19-20 double overtime loss to the perennial state champions, Wichita Southeast, the young Panthers have a lot to look forward to in the future."

The Sophomore Football team acquired a new coach for the season. Mr. Jim Riedel, instructor at Swaney Elementary School, took over the head coach position.

The team ended the season with a perfect 5-0 record. Coach Riedel said their success could be attributed to the aggressive players. "We really had a super bunch of players. The athletes were determined enough to put forth the effort it took to be a winning team."

Dedication Strengthens Team

"The team was young and inexperienced, but through determination and dedication they made the year successful when it could have been disastrous," said Coach Gary Billy. Coach Billy replaced Norman Smith as coach for the varsity matmen.

Lack of participants caused a few problems. "We had to forfeit a minimum of two weights at about every meet which means giving 12-18 points to the other teams," stated Coach Billy. Despite this handicap, they ended the season with a third place finish in the Ark Valley League and a 5-3 win-loss record. Also, three grapplers became state placers while the team as a whole finished fourth.

Although the team consisted mostly of underclassmen, they exhibited discipline in every aspect. "They knew what they had to do and the steps they needed to do it," commented Coach Billy.

Girls' Basketball Team Shows Effort, Dedication

"Despite a frustrating year of chaos and confusion, the girls stayed together. They never quit," said Coach Mike Kindt.

Mr. Kindt arrived from C 'bon-dale, Kansas, to teach math and coach the girls' varsity squad.

Throughout the season, the team displayed spirit by wearing t-shirts and making posters initialed GBIFR. They later revealed that the letters meant "Girls' Basketball is For Real." "They proved it was real because they learned they could compete and win games they shouldn't have," remarked Coach Kindt.

In March, the varsity members advanced to the Sub-State Tournament at Friends University where they upset Wichita South 61-56, then lost to Wichita Southeast 31-35. The team was named Sub-State Runner-Ups at the end of the tournament.

Despite their Sub-State placing, the varsity girls finished eighth in the Ark Valley League with a 2-14 win-loss record and a 4-17 overall record.

The junior varsity team ended a successful season with a 10-6 win-loss record. "They played with tremendous effort," stated Coach Lynn Bunnell. "We had fun. We played well together, and we weren't bothered by outside problems," commented Julie Francis, jr.

Girls And Boys Tennis

New Courts Improve Teams

Even though 15 of the 20 members were newcomers to the girls team, a successful competitive atmosphere continued, according to Mr. Bill Schantz, coach.

At most local tournaments, the girls played at a disadvantage due to the lack of experience. At Circle High School Invitational, experience played a minor role, however, as the team walked away with first place.

When competing at regionals, Krista Griffith, sr., placed third while Marcie Thorndike, soph., received fourth. Both girls were returning players, and the wins qualified the two for state. However, while attending state, neither Krista nor Marcie were able to place.

Mr. Mike Witherspoon, boys coach, stated that the boys team was on its way to improvement, but the boys seemed to always play with a little less experience than the opposing teams.

With the First National Bank sponsoring a summer tennis program, more opportunities to gain experience were available. Along with the new program, four new courts were added and four courts resurfaced.

Sportsmanship Shown Through Cooperation

Sophomores dominated the girls' track team with Karen Backues and Val Thompson proving to be a basic part of the team's strength.

In the two mile run, Backues placed either first or second in every meet. Meanwhile, Thompson broke a school record in high jump by clearing five feet.

Head Girls' Track Coach Lynn Bunnell remarked, "The team had a super attitude. Everyone wanted to help everyone." She explained how their helpful attitude made a basically individual sport into a team sport.

Junior Debbie Thomas commented, "Even though it was a small group, we had a lot of fun and accomplished more than people thought we would."

New 100% Rubber Track Aids Home Meets

A team effort, instead of an individual effort, helped the Boys Track Team place in the top four at every track meet.

The team was smaller, so everyone participated and did well, according to Larry Bernstorf, head coach. Along with being smaller, the team consisted mainly of sophomores, as there were only six seniors, five juniors and 13 sophomores.

The team placed second at the Derby Invitational which was special because "we were winning at home," stated Coach Bernstorf. It was also one of the biggest meets in which they competed.

Also, the track team had an added advantage of a new, 100% rubber track which helped alleviate leg injuries by providing better traction.

Coach Bernstorf commented, "Derby is known for our outstanding track facility." The new surface was the only one like it among the Kansas high schools.

Installation of the red, rubber track was begun during the summer and completed in the fall.

Softball Team Roster Lengthened

The increased number of girls at tryouts created an added interest in softball. Twenty-five girls made up the team compared to the previous year's total of sixteen. However, due to the fact that only sixteen new uniforms were bought, not all girls could suit up for every game. As a result, the girls had to work extra hard at practice before each game in order to be selected by Coach Bill Kelley to participate in the game.

Sophomore Joellen Mullins felt that the team exhibited good sportsmanship. "Instead of yelling against the other teams, we cheered in a positive way for our team," said Joellen.

The golf team finished higher in the Ark Valley League than they had in approximately fifteen years. A third place finish in regionals and a seventh place finish in state ended the season with an unusually successful record. "I can't remember placing that high in ten years," said Coach Tom McVay.

Coach McVay said senior Gary Cocking had an outstanding year. He won third individually at regionals and finished off the season with an eleventh place finish at state.

Varsity And Junior Varsity Baseball Both Teams Improve Records

Both Varsity and Junior Varsity teams finished with some improvement over previous years.

Junior Varsity had an excellent year, according to Coach John Kennedy. They ended the season with a 10-2 record with pitching highlighting the games. "Out of our ten wins, we had six different starting pitchers," said Coach

Kennedy.

The Varsity team also did well. They took third in the Ark Valley League and ended the season with an overall 8-12 record.

Coach Rod Spatz said, "I felt like we were as strong as any team around, with the exception of some of the Wichita City League teams."

Coach Rates First Year As 'Dream Season'

Under the direction of Coach Jose Vigil, the new soccer team had an outstanding first season. They had an overall record of seven wins, one loss and two ties.

Being the only soccer team in the Ark Valley League, they were an independent team and were invited to play in the Wichita City League.

The team was officially coeducational, although only two girls tried out. Coach Vigil stated that he looked forward to having girls on the team in the future.

The only negative point about the season was injuries. There were two serious injuries: one, when Andy Napier, sr., collapsed during a game; another, when Bryan Williams, sr., sustained a knee injury. At the time they were injured, Napier was the most valuable defensive player, and Williams was the most valuable offensive player, according to Coach Vigil. Coach Vigil believed the reason for so many injuries in soccer was because of the way

Americans play. He said, "They are very rough."

The team had experience because most of the players had been involved in the Optimist Soccer Program in previous years. Coach Vigil commented, "They were a great bunch of boys, determined, enthusiastic ... just a talented team. I could even see improvement throughout the season. It was like a dream season. I hope we can repeat it."

Gas Shortages Bust Budgets

Students saw unleaded gas rise from $1 in September to $1.12 in January. However, predictions were that by the end of 1980 gas would be $2 per gallon. The price increase was blamed on the Iranian crisis, depletion of limited American sources, and gas guzzling automobiles. "My monthly gas bill went up $25," stated Mrs. Bobbie Evans, Business Department.

"We became dependent on a depletable source of energy," Ron Kroening, Jr.

Skating Gains In Popularity

Roller skating was one of many sports that gained popularity and appeared to be practiced by people of all ages for various reasons.

In March, Student Council sponsored an all school skating party at Skate East in Wichita.

In addition, disco on wheels was introduced by the movie, "Roller Boogie," starring Linda Blair.

Powder Puffs Endure Cold

During the annual Powder Puff football game held on a cold November night, stereotyped sex roles were reversed. Junior and Senior girls took over the field wearing football jerseys. Meanwhile, the males cheered on the side lines waving pom pons.

Prior to the game, the girls were seen practicing on the practice field. Karen McKee, sr., remarked, "It's hard to be an athlete, and it made me realize how out of shape I was after the first lap around the track."

'Powder Puff was fun because we could experience playing on the field and not just cheering.'

Special Bond Unites Class

The Junior Class had the burden of major expenses because they sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom. To help meet their financial obligations, they sponsored the annual Powder Puff Football Game and sold candy at the beginning of the year.

Lisa Hock, junior class president, commented, "All of the projects attempted worked out. Though there were a few cliques and groups, overall we had a special bond which united us as a class."

Nikes And Spikes Adorn Feet

Body clinging, softer fabrics adorned students' bodies while Nikes and spikes decorated their feet.

During the winter, students sported soft, brightly colored velour shirts and sweaters resembling bathroom rugs. As girls' dresses became slinkier with hemlines and necklines plunging, slit skirts gained popularity. During the summer, girls donned tube tops while guys flaunted fish nets. They tied it all together with a chic, double-looped belt.

Limbs also rated in the fashion scene. Shoe companies seemed to be competing to take over students' feet, and it wasn't uncommon in the same classroom to see heavy, hiking boots, trim spikes and comfortable Nikes. Meanwhile, as gold prices went out of control, gold chains became fashionable. Other accessories included tortoise shell headbands and combs which ornamented the "animal," as well as the other hair styles.

Fashion ranged from sensible to sensational; and as prices went out of control, gold became an accessory sizzler.

Support Given For Hostages

Students gave support for the American hostages in Iran by participating in various activities. For example, many classes wrote letters and sent Christmas cards. Student Council sponsored a poster which students could sign. However, due to a small percentage of politically inflammatory comments, it could not be sent. Instead, StuCo mailed a Christmas card from the student body. "The Panther's Tale" staff wrote stories about the situation ranging from editorials and opinion polls to an interview with Arsena Minassian, sr., an Iranian student who attended DSH because of the political unrest in Iran.

Amateur Boxer Strives, Wins

Wes Pechin, jr., began boxing four years ago. He started by just working out, but then acquired a liking for the sport. He boxed at the Diaz Boxing Club in Wichita but later trained at the Wichita Hallacy Boxing club.

Although he didn't have plans for a professional career in boxing, Wes planned to continue the sport through high school and college.

To stay fit for competition, Wes practiced approximately six to eight hours a week. In regard to his pre-fight preparations, Wes stated that, "I tell myself that I'm going to win. I also try to have self-confidence because you have to if you're going to win."

Murals Will Be Heritage Of Future Students

The painting of murals by Production Art students in various halls and classrooms became a major project of the year. The murals were a part of a continuing year-to-year project, such as the mosaic construction which required over seven years to complete.

The murals were the result of cooperation of students, teachers, the school board, principals, and Mr. Richard Dolloff, art instructor.

Mr. Dolloff confided, "The art can be used as a teaching tool." He liked the permanent projects because they taught his students to please somebody besides themselves.

Between 1962 and 1969, mosaics were constructed by art students under the instruction of Ms. Sue-Jean Covacevich to build up the schools morale. Those mosaics were displayed above classroom doorways and throughout the halls, giving the school a uniqueness few other schools could reproduce. The newly painted murals added to this uniqueness.

In 1975 when the Commons was built, and the old cafeteria was converted into the library, the largest and most intricate mosaic depicting Kansas was cut into three pieces and stored in a dusty closet for five years. Through the efforts of Mr. Kendall Pyle, principal, the mosaic was re-erected in the Commons in December of 1979.

The art is irreplaceable because it was done by people who after graduating might never be able to create the same kind of art again. They left a part of themselves. However, during the 1967-68 school year, an appraisal of the mosaics valued them at $200,000. A more current appraisal was not available.

Student Council Club Sponsors Many Projects

Student Council started the year with two new sponsors, Mrs. Bobbie Evans and Mr. Jack Nelson, business education instructors. However, in October, Mr. Nelson resigned as co-sponsor because of other teaching commitments.

Soon afterwards, StuCo members began serious work on their projects.

In addition to traditional projects, StuCo assumed responsibility for sponsoring many new proposals, as well as sponsoring some former Panther Pack coronations.

The Student Council sponsored breakfast in the commons where donuts and juice were sold. President Jeff Gates said the donut socials were not money making projects, but a service to the student body.

As a Christmas present to the Derby students, StuCo showed the film "Walking Tall Pt. II." In January, Student Council sponsored the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Kayettes

School, Community Projects Highlight Year

Kayettes started the year by greeting teachers with seasonal fruit on the first day of school. The next major tasks included selling holly in December and participating in various community and school projects. They occasionally helped out at Westview Manor Nursing Center.

To emphasize the arrival of spring, they celebrated Daisy Day on March 21, and before spring break they sponsored an Easter Egg Hunt for the children at the Our Gang Day Care Center.

Children's Theater Beauty And The Beast

The Children's Theater started a tradition in the Drama Department. The Drama III Class wrote, directed and performed "Beauty And The Beast," adapted from a book of children's stories.

The actors performed for various groups, such as day care centers, churches and a banquet.

A feature of the Children's Theater was group participation by the audience. Mrs. Jan Eaton, drama instructor, stated, "It is a good experience for all actors to perform in front of children. They are a unique audience with a personality all their own. We hope the Children's Theater will become a tradition."

Mid-Winter Production

Spoon River Anthology

"I thought it was one of the most professional high school productions I'd ever seen," stated Mrs. Jan Eaton, drama instructor, in reference to "Spoon River Anthology." Drama students were completely responsible for the production. Theresa Anthony, sr., directed the play, and Amy Jo Chandler, sr., took charge of the musical directing.

Drama Club Members Utilize Summertime

Rather than limiting their activities to the school year, Drama Club branched out and remained active during the summer months. On the Fourth of July, Drama Club presented "The Saga of Little Nell" at Hand Park. "This was the first time we ever held an activity during the summer," stated Theresa Anthony, president.

After the school year started, it became more difficult to find time for Drama Club activities. This could be attributed to the fact that the Drama Department had three major productions, and most of the club members were also active in the productions.

However, Drama Club did find time for a few new activities. One of these was the selling of Homecoming mums due to the cancellation of Panther Pack. Thespians also attended the Association of Kansas Theaters Convention in Wichita for the first time. Mrs. Jan Eaton, sponsor, stated, "There was a good turnout at all of our activities."

Math Team Group Upholds High Ranking

As in previous years, the team continued to rank high in various math competitions held at surrounding colleges.

In addition to participating in Math Days at Emporia State University and Bethany College, the team took part in the Math Relays held at Pittsburg State University in which 60 to 65 schools compete each year.

Also, in coordination with the Science Department, some members participated in Math-Science College Bowls at Kansas Newman College and Wichita State University.

Math Club

Group Gains More People

The organization gave students with similar interests the opportunity to meet together and learn from each other. Members presented programs dealing with various math concepts at the club meetings and also competed in math contests among themselves.

Although membership had not increased, Robert McKinney, president, stated that he felt the club had reached more people. This could be attributed to the fact that members brought friends along with them to the meetings.

The Math Club also participated in the Homecoming Parade in which they won first place in their category for their entry.

French Club Snacks Add Authentic Flair

Various French cheeses, cakes, cookies and punch seemed to highlight the meetings held by French Club.

By selling perfume and candy, the club was able to buy 25 French dictionaries, go to a French movie and serve refreshments at their meetings. Filmstrips, slides and skits were also a part of the meetings, with the purpose of helping students get knowledge of French culture and people.

During the Christmas season, the club exchanged presents among members and ate French Christmas cake.

Vocational Industrial Clubs Of America Team Returns To Georgia

For the first time in VICA history, a DSH student represented VICA as state president. Lori Edminster, sr., a second year VICA student, held the office throughout the year.

For the second consecutive year, three VICA members attended the National Conference held in Atlanta, Georgia. After competing in State Contest, seniors Lori Edminster, Donna Keeler and Lynn Laing brought home a total of 12 medals, thus qualifying the three to compete in Nationals during the summer.

New Coach Continues Successful Teams

Coached by Mr. Ron Gore, the debate team made it to state for the first time in five years. The team took second place.

The debaters also gained recognition at the Western Kansas National Forensics League Tournament, which was the national qualifier. Joni Branstetter, sr., and Kevin Case, sr., placed third, and Robert McKinney, sr., and Lisa Hock, jr., placed fourth.

Kevin and Joni achieved first place when they participated in the Emporia State University Tournament of Champions where only the top debaters in the state competed.

Taking sweepstakes at the National Forensics League Tournament highlighted the forensics year. Chris Thomas, sr., gained the honor of national qualifier when he took first in humorous interpretation. Also placing were Kevin Case, second place in humorous interpretation; Matt Williams, sr., third place in dramatic interpretation; and Robert McKinney, third place in boys extemporaneous speaking.

The squad also earned the title of Grand Champions of the Emporia High School Debate and Forensics Tournament.

Shifting Leadership Positions Cause Determined Teamwork

For the second year in a row, the yearbook had eight pages of natural color. The eight color pages required an early deadline, and most of the pressure fell on the shoulders of senior Sharyl Wolfe, student life editor, and junior Ross Hess, photographer.

1. Hyla Emery, sr., is momentarily distracted from her photography duties while on assignment at a basketball game.

2. Using the light table to fit her pictures to her layout, Sharyl Wolfe, sr., prepares a page to be sent to the yearbook company.

Sharyl stated, "We stayed after school every day for a week until 8:30 or 10:00 p.m. Pizza was our nightly feast, and then it was back to work.

At mid-term, Mark Young, sr., resigned his position as editor and Kevin Case, sr., took over. Although the leadership positions shifted, the class grew more determined to produce a quality yearbook.

For the first year, every photographer on the yearbook staff received either first or second place at the Independence Junior Community College Curricular Contest. Hyla Emery, sr., received first in sports photography, Kirk Moore, sr., received second in photography as art, Ron Hess, jr., received first in feature photography and third in news photography, and Ron Kroening, jr., received second in sports photography.

Newspaper

Staff Adopts New Techniques

"Nothing was the same," stated senior Joni Branstetter, co-editor of "The Panther's Tale." Returning members of the newspaper staff found a new advisor, Mrs. Ruby Brumfield, and new techniques. Major changes involved switching to a 35 mm camera and a new layout style.

The layout style changed from five columns to four columns, and the newspaper gained a more modern appearance.

Editors encouraged staff reporters to write in a more 'in depth' style. Story subjects included, "Dropouts — Society Often Stereotypes The Dropout A Loser," "Booze At DSH Some Blame Lax Attitudes; Students Just Say They Like It," "Draft A Threat?"

Art Association Club Publicity Attracts Artists

For the second straight year, the club increased its membership due to the extra effort of second and third year members. These students recruited artists through an aggressive publicity campaign.

The Christmas sale developed into the major project of the year. Mr. Richard Dolloff, sponsor, said that the sale gave the art students valuable experience in merchandising. They learned what processes had to occur in order for their product to be sold at market. Individual students profited from this sale.

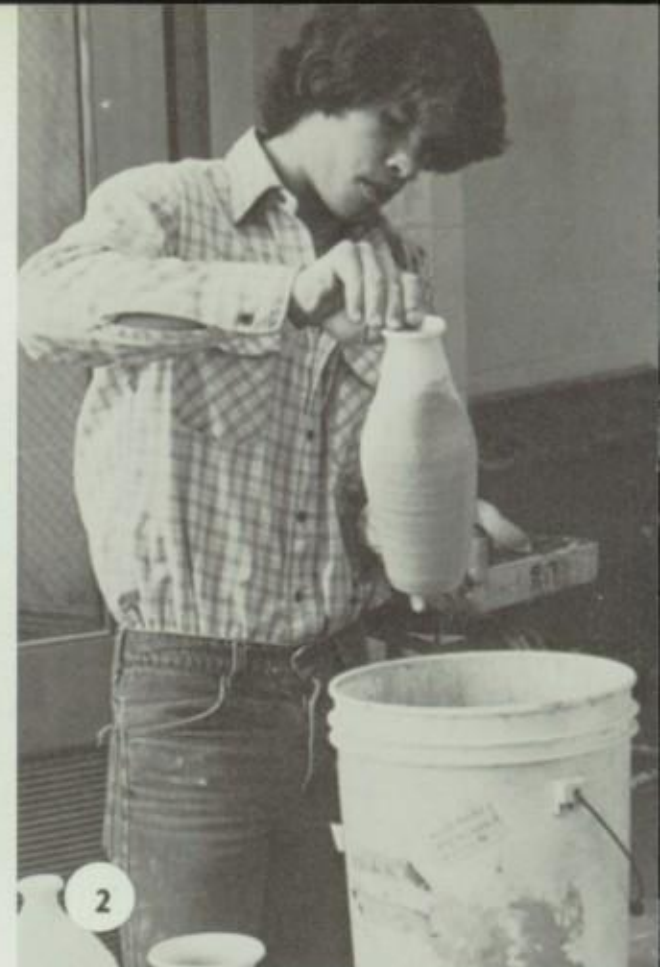

To raise club funds, members sold panther stationary.

1. In the gymnastics room, Art Association members, Anna Brown, sr., and Cindy Davis, jr., paint silhouettes of gymnasts.

Faith Keeps Club Going

At the beginning of the year, FCA had no sponsors; however, lack of sponsors did not hamper the club members' attitudes.

Not only did the club continue, it grew in attendance. Members volunteered their homes for weekly meetings. They were not allowed to meet on school grounds due to the lack of sponsors. In time, Mr. John Fasano and Mr. Mike Witherspoon volunteered to be FCA sponsors. Senior Mike Mackey, president, stated, "The faith of the people kept FCA going."

Members attended both the fall and spring FCA Mini-Conferences at Rock Springs, Kansas. They also held "An Evening With FCA" on November 10. Wichita and surrounding area FCA's came and participated in singing, testimonies, prayer and fellowship.

Fellowship Of Christian Athletes

Campus Life

True Love Shown To Others

A new name and a stronger purpose helped in the growth of Campus Life, formerly Youth For Christ. The name change took place because members wanted a name which reflected a life-style and not a rigid religious concept. Also, Wichita clubs affiliated themselves with Campus Life, not Youth For Christ.

Members tried to show others within the school "the true love, the true joy and a lot of hope found only in Jesus Christ," according to senior Jerry Reynolds, president.

For the first time, Campus Life and Fellowship Of Christian Athletes merged together for occasional meetings. Members attended the Dandelion, a Wichita evening entertainment spot for Christians. They also participated in the community Derby Bible project which involved writing chapters of the Bible.

1. During a time of personal testimony, Jerry Reynolds, sr., listens to fellow club members.

Junior Distributive Education Clubs Of America Speakers Aid Class Study

Guest speakers and audio visuals gave an educational insight to Jr. DECA students. Mrs. Allene Bowie, instructor, felt that by using different forms of information, the students seemed to get a better view of how to choose and maintain their desired occupation. Mrs. Bowie stated that, unlike previous years, the students gained significant information from their textbooks.

The speakers offered information to the students which would help them when they started at a job of their own. Union speakers, attorneys, wholesalers and real estate agents were just some of the different types of speakers.

Senior Distributive Education Clubs Of America Club Accepts New Sponsor

With the resignation of their sponsor and their president, the Senior Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) students found a little difficulty in getting things accomplished.

For the second year in a row, a new sponsor had to be found to take over the classes at mid-term. Mrs. Ailene Bowie, having experience in retail selling, assumed responsibility of the students.

The Senior DECA program was designed to help students decide what to do with their lives and help them find the right occupations. After choosing a place of employment, the students were required to remain employed in order to receive credit in the class.

Senior Office Education Association Service Projects Involve Club

Senior Office Education Association provided a club activity for students to get involved in service, social and leadership activities on the local, state and national level.

During the course of the year, members assisted Student Council by typing the Student Directory — a collection of names, addresses and phone numbers of students. The national OEA project for the year involved helping with Special Olympics by timing events and presenting awards.

The OEA Store was a school service project and also a fund raiser to send qualifiers from the spring conference in Emporia to nationals in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Girls Prepare For Next Year

Students prepared for their senior year in Senior Office Education Association by joining Jr. OEA.

Since participation in Jr. OEA was low, not many projects were sponsored. However, on St. Patrick's Day they planned to make place mats and napkins for the pediatrics ward of St. Francis Hospital.

In March, the Jr. OEA girls attended the State Conference in Emporia along with the senior members. Also attending were three interested sophomores (Sara Boman, Karen Dick, and Terri Brown).

Cheerleaders

Girls Inherit Responsibilities; Stuntmen Start New Tradition

Lack of a sponsor for Panther Pack caused the cheerleaders to have more responsibilities. The girls sponsored Football Homecoming, Winter Sports Homecoming and Mr. Panther, which kept them active throughout the year.

During the summer, the varsity squad received a trophy along with the name Grand Champions (Outstanding Group) for the second year, at the Kansas University cheerleading camp.

"Working for a common goal and meeting different people is what I like best about cheerleading," stated Diane Cary, head cheerleader.

A new addition included stuntmen, who helped the cheerleaders in performing their routines. The stuntmen and cheerleaders met twice a week in the mornings for practice. "The girls needed help to achieve new and more difficult routines," stated Greg Gibbs, stuntman.

Early Summer Practices Start Squad's Year

Two major changes occurred from the previous year in Pantherettes. The squad decreased to 20 girls, and they gained Mrs. Pamela Breech as a co-sponsor with Mrs. Ruby Brumfield.

The girls started the year during the summer with early morning practices and pom pon camps. They raised money by selling T-shirts and jewelry and having a car wash.

During the year due to lack of practice space, the Pantherettes, not only practiced after school, but also early morning in the gym.

"I felt a sense of accomplishment after practicing so hard, then going out and shining in front of the crowd," Pam Bevington, sr., commented.

The squad performed at the home varsity games and at the Wichita South Basketball Tournament and Basketball Sub-State Tournament. Marching in several parades (including Homecoming, Fourth of July, and the State Fair), highlighted the year. In addition, a new tradition was started with ten Pantherettes performing in the annual Miss Derby Pageant.

"Pantherettes isn't all fun. There is a lot of hard work, but it's a great way to be involved and show your school spirit too," stated Cathy Osborn, sr.

Summing up the year, Mrs. Brumfield commented, "Pantherettes were great as usual."

New Group Adds School Spirit

A new addition to school spirit included the forming of the Pantherbelle pom pon squad. The squad consisted of sophomore girls who planned to try out for Pantherettes as juniors, with the idea of forming a Pantherette team with experience.

"I was really wondering if forming the sophomore squad was a good thing, but now I'm glad I did. It worked out a lot better than I thought it would. They seem to have so much fun, and the routines were more sophisticated than I thought they would be," stated Mrs. Ruby Brumfield, co-sponsor.

The girls performed at Sophomore and Junior Varsity games and marched in the Fourth of July and Christmas parades.

Vocal Music

Vocal Groups Attend Tri-State

Because State Music Festival was scheduled to take place during Spring Break, the vocal groups did not participate for the first time in 13 years. Only students wishing to take solos to contest participated in the yearly event. Instead, the various groups took part in Tri-State Festival in Enid, Oklahoma.

"Tri-State is better," remarked Mr. Ross Hearn, director, "because more schools participate. Our students have an opportunity to hear how other groups around the area sound."

As well as going to Tri-State Festival, the ensembles performed for various organizations and took part in other contests or clinics. The Chansonettes placed second in the Wichita Invitational Ensemble Festival at Wichita East High School. Later, the Madrigals competed in the Madrigal Invitational held at East High and sang at the Ark Valley Ensemble Clinic in El Dorado. These events, held in the beginning of the year, gave the ensembles experience in presenting themselves as a well organized group and helped familiarize the individuals in singing together as a group.

In addition to regularly scheduled concerts, Philharmonic Choir combined with the orchestra in presenting Schubert's Mass in G at Friends University. Mr. Hearn commented that, because of the challenging level of the piece, he was considering making it an annual event.

A girls' ensemble was also selected from the girls' choir, Los Jovenes del Coro, and both performed at the regular school concerts.

Band Performances Rate High

Marching Band received "1" ratings at numerous contests and two marching festivals. For the first year, the band participated in both the Wichita State University and the Fort Hayes Band Day marching festivals. At the Wichita State University contest they received the only "1" rating within a 100 mile radius of Wichita. "I was extremely proud of the way they performed," commented Mr. Glen Goering, director. In addition, new hats and cummerbunds were sported by the percussion section.

Awards were presented at the end of marching season with Susan Dirks earning Outstanding Sophomore and Lisa Hock earning Outstanding Junior. Will Cooper received the Outstanding Senior award and was honored by the designation of Outstanding Overall Band Student. Also, Kristin Sexton, jr., received the Outstanding Flag Girl award.

Due to increased enrollment, Concert Band was divided into symphonic band and a smaller concert band during second semester. At the spring concert, the bands hosted a well-known group called "The Gaslight Gang," who accompanied them.

Jazz Ensemble continued the tradition of entertaining at home basketball games. Members were selected by audition and were required to be in one other band. "They're less experienced but have the potential to develop into a fine group," stated Mr. Goering.

Fifteen Orchestra students traveled to Kansas City and participated in the University of Missouri Honor Orchestra. Extra rehearsals and practice prepared them for the performance. Members also performed in District, All-State and Ark Valley League Orchestras. On the other hand, members experienced some frustrations. For example, Mother Nature's cold, dry air caused a few broken instrument strings and cut fingers. "The extreme cold hampered our practice," commented Michele Weigand, sr.

Homecoming

Seniors Excel In Competition

For the first year, Student Council sponsored Spirit Week and Homecoming, due to the disbanding of Panther Pack, the pep club. All week, classes busily prepared floats for the parade, each striving for first place. Television programs was the theme, and even though all the floats were vividly decorated, seniors won the float competition. Classes also competed in hall decorating for Spirit Week, with the seniors triumphing again.

Floats were displayed in the parade which was held on Friday afternoon. For the second year, Carlton Junior High Band was bussed into town to participate in the parade, along with the Derby Junior and Senior High Bands. That evening, at the Homecoming Game, spirit was high. During half-time activities, Diane Cary, sr., was crowned queen. The Pantherettes and Marching Band also performed routines. Coming back for the second half of the game, the Panthers shut out the Campus Colts, 10-0.

Saturday Night the dance was held in the commons building, where the queen and candidates participated in the traditional Queen's Dance.

Holly Ball

Student Body Crowns Allen

Kayettes sponsored the annual Holly Ball Dance with the theme of Winter Wonderland. Years ago, the name was given to the dance because Kayettes sold holly to finance it. The tradition was upheld.

Six seniors were nominated by the Kayettes as candidates for King, and the students voted for their choice. The escorts were chosen by the candidates from a list of senior Kayettes who had not previously been escorts.

Ron Hess, jr., and Mark Young, sr., provided the music and a light show.

Winter Sports Homecoming Mascot Crowns 1980 Queen

Cheerleaders sponsored the sixth annual Winter Sports Homecoming crowning on February 29.

Despite tradition, the Panther Mascot crowned Lisa Hall at half-time of the El Dorado basketball game because Sally Morrow, 1979 queen, had prior commitments. Lisa received roses and an I.D. bracelet.

Basketball and Wrestling teams selected candidates, and the names were then submitted to the faculty. Thus, competition was narrowed to five girls with at least a 2.5 grade average. The girls selected their own escorts.

Student Council sponsored the dance on the following evening.

1. Traditional dance for the queen, attendants, and escorts is danced midway through the evening.

2. ATTENDANTS AND ESCORTS: Front Row: Mike Dowling, Mary Van Boening, Donnie Wood, Lori Holcomb; Back Row: Al O'Donnell, Steff Behrens, Bryan Williams, Joni Branstetter.

During the halftime of the Derby-Hutchinson basketball game, the coronation of Mr. Panther, Thad Coffindaffer, sr., took place. The honor recognized Thad, not only for participation in athletics, but also for academic excellence.

Female athletes nominated the candidates, and the faculty and student body voted on them. Sponsors for the coronation were Mrs. Janet Chegwidgen, cheerleader sponsor, and Mrs. Janet Heidebrecht, assistant cheerleader sponsor.

ROTC Military Ball Junior Wins High Honor

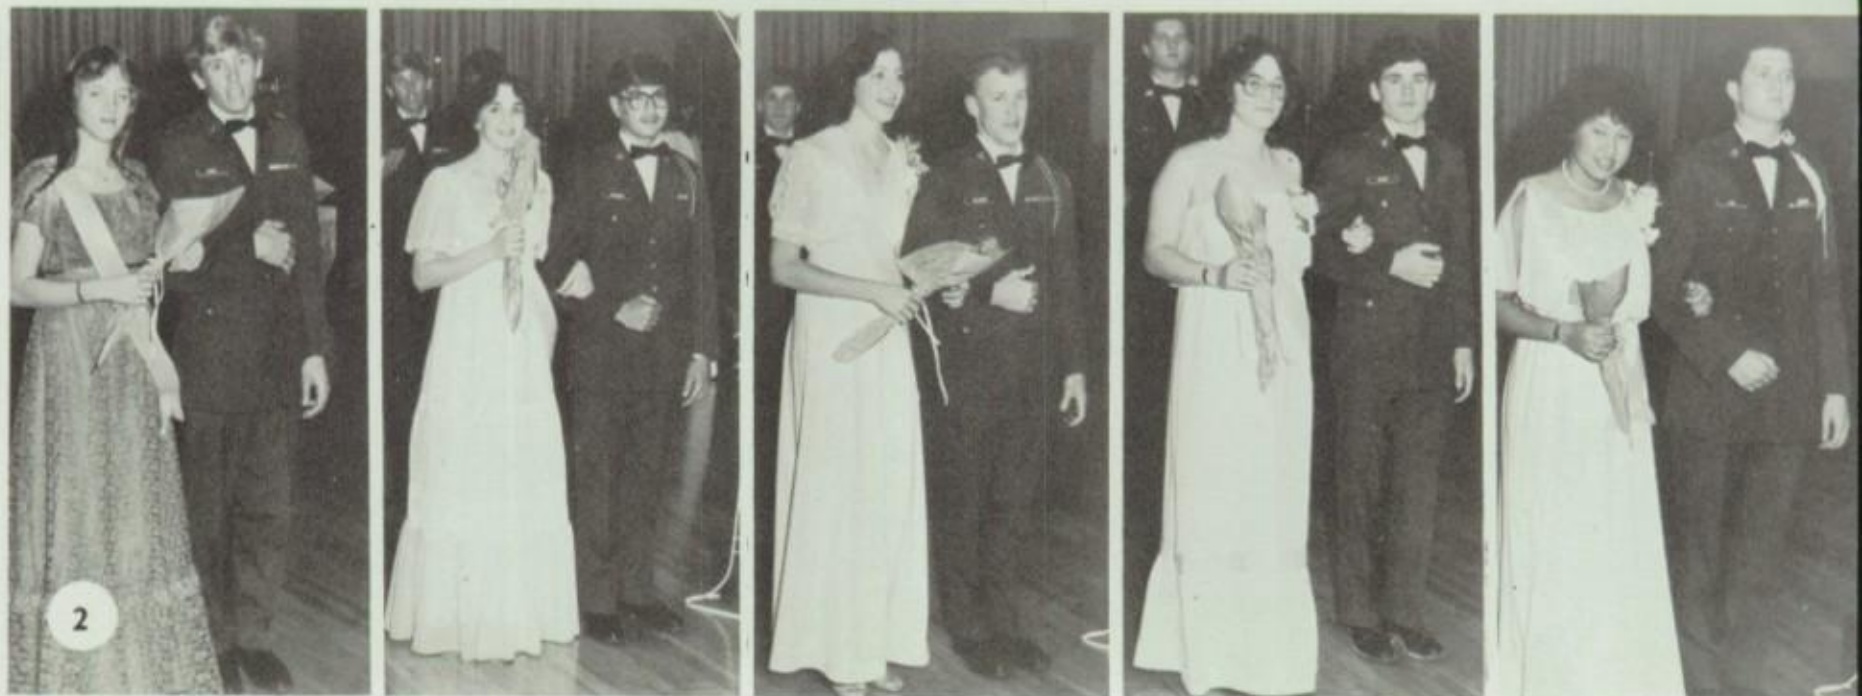

The Kansas 61st AFJROTC held its ninth annual Military Ball on April 10 in the Non-Commissioned Officers Club at McConnell Air Force Base.

The evening began with a social hour and then a roast beef dinner. After the dinner, C Flight's Sweetheart, Julie Francis, jr., was crowned as the 1980 Military Queen. Previously, each flight had chosen a sweetheart and her escort.

On Wednesday, April 9, the cadets voted on the candidates. The cadets chose Ron Miller, jr., to be the Queen's escort. Each sweetheart received a rose and bracelet. The new queen received a half dozen silk roses and an engraved necklace and bracelet. The evening also featured dancing with music by Disco Granddaddy C.C.K.

Junior/Senior Prom Decor Hints Theme Fantasy

The "Long and Winding Road" of the Prom began at the front door of the Beech Activity Center on April 26. On entering, guests started their journey across a bridge erected over a simulated pond. Plants ornamented the bridge and the lake.

Refreshments poured from a continuously flowing fountain and were served in wine glasses engraved with the theme and date of the Prom. Meanwhile, couples danced under a twinkling mirror ball while The Better Side Band provided the music.

Midway through the event, Bryan Williams and Amy Jo Chandler, srs., were crowned Prom King and Queen. "It was an unexpected, but nice, honor," said Bryan Williams, sr.

1. While gazing at the souvenir Prom glasses, Jorg Rogalski, Jr., waits to be served.

2. ATTENDANTS: Janis Lake and Jerry Reynolds, Jennifer Miller and Mike Dowling, LuAnn Pickens and Kevin Case, Laura Butler and Wade Nichols.

3. Sporting matching tuxedos, Madeline Edwards, sr., and her date, Mike Shea, converse with friends.

2. After removing his crown, Bryan Williams, sr., envelopes Amy Jo Chandler, sr., for a victory kiss.

3. While "The Better Side Band" provides a mellow tune, students converge on the dance floor for a slow dance.

Graduation Three Seniors Share Honors

Two valedictorians made the class of 1980 unique. Kevin Ashton and Jeff Gates tied for the honor, both graduating with a 4.0 grade point average.

Kevin gave his speech entitled "Looking Out," while Jeff's was entitled "Being Friends With the Man in the Glass."

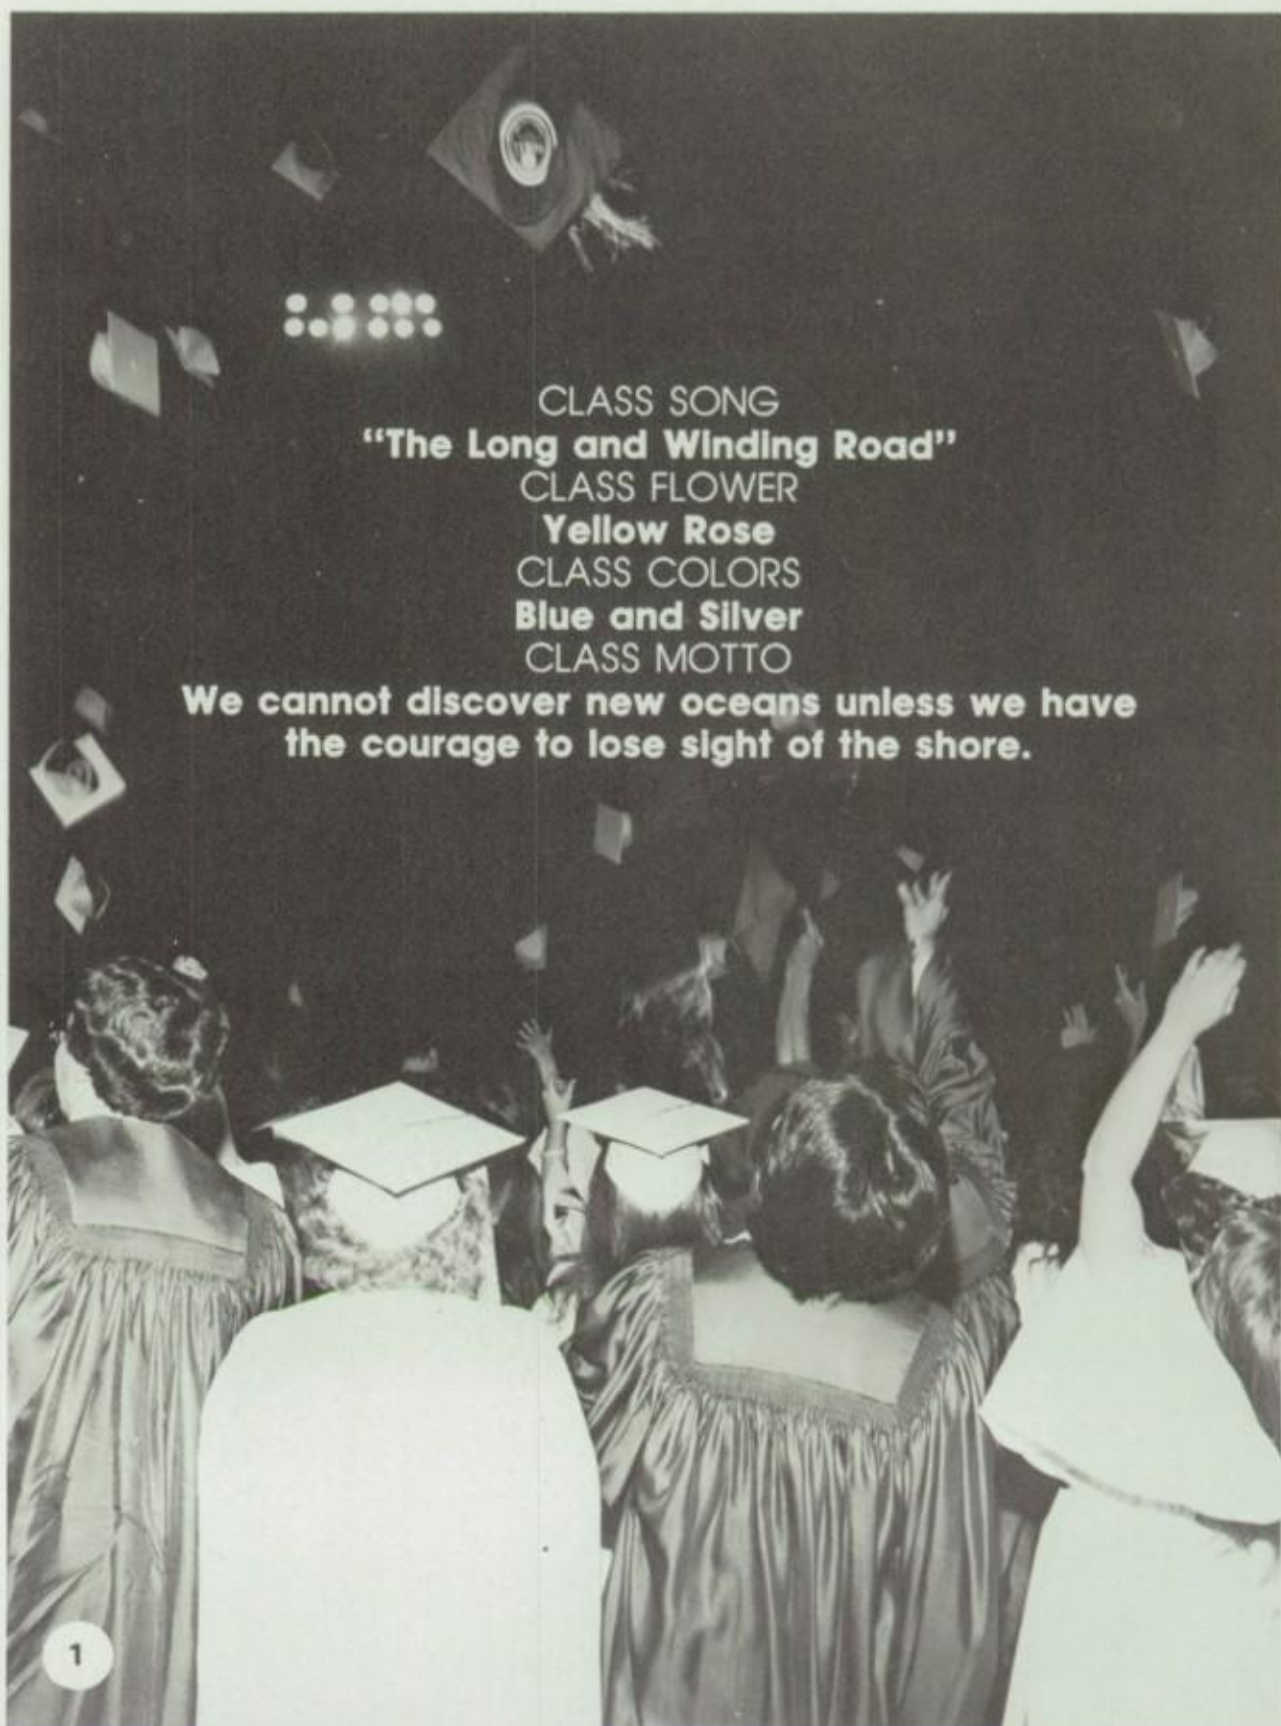

Salutatorian Cindy Hammans came to Derby at midterm and took over the number three position. She gave her speech about "The Possible Dream."

Receiving diplomas at the commencement, which was held in the stadium, were 325 seniors.

1. After receiving their diplomas, the graduates throw their hats into the air.

2. Waiting for the other seniors to get their diplomas, Nancy Meeks and Jerry Reynolds watch the ceremony.

In Memory Of Our Friend And Classmate Mike McMillion

Mike died at the age of 16 on April 18, 1980, after a long battle with cancer. His courage was an example to everyone whose life he touched, and the memories that he left reflect a positive life lived to the fullest every day. He saw beauty in everything; thus, he taught us how to live. The picture below is one of many left by Mike whose hobby was photography. He took it at sunset one early summer evening from his back yard. The quotes are from Mike's journal which he wrote in his College Bound Composition I Class during first semester.

FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL

"I didn't know how people would take to seeing a bald sixteen-year-old junior. It was a lot easier than I thought . . . I have found now that most of the kids and my old friends have accepted me with or without hair."

"I used to go at all my school work half-hearted. This year after not attending any school or classes for eight months, I found out how much I missed it. This year, I am really applying myself and trying hard for two reasons. One is because I really enjoy the school work and homework more. It seems more interesting. The other reason is because I am only going to school the first three hours in the morning — doctor's orders . . . I'm just very happy to be able to attend school this year and see all my old friends."

FRIENDS

"One thing I've always appreciated was a friend in whom I could trust and tell things I would tell no one else . . . I think one thing a person needs in his lifetime is good friends."

CHRISTMAS

"I don't know if when you were a kid you had a favorite decoration, but I do. It's a little bird that looks like a sparrow which I put as high in the tree as I can get it."

It would be impossible to duplicate another school year like 1980. The events that combined to produce the unique experiences were like those of no other year. In this sense, the 1980 Panther is extinct — never to occur again.

Likewise, the wild black panther is in danger of extinction. In nature it is very rare to see this magnificent animal because the mating conditions that produce a black panther seldom occur, and his natural environment is slowly disappearing.

We have tried to emphasize the similarities between our mascot of 32 years, the black panther, and the students of Derby Senior High School. If the time ever comes when the panther is totally extinct, we hope that his unique qualities will live on in the hearts and minds of all who were a part of DSH in the past, present, and future.

Sincerely,
Kevin Case
Editor
